GALES LASH NEW ENGLAND

By United Press
A storm of blinding snow, sleet, rain, gales and cold swept northeastward toward New England today, leaving a path of snow-bound cities, crippled communication and transportation systems and at least 50 dead. In southern states torrential rains brought threats of floods.

The storm has swept through Oklahoma and Arkansas, northeast through Missouri and Illinois, thence eastward, paralyzing commercial activities and land, water and air travel. It was centered today over western Pennsylvania.

Storm Continues
U. S. Forecaster C. A. Donnel at Chicago, said the storm still was "widespread and severe" and probably would blow itself out over New England tonight or Wednesday. He predicted additional snow and lower temperatures today for Pennsylvania, New Jersey, eastern New York, New England and the upper Great Lakes area and probable snow or rain for the entire central states region Wednesday.

In addition, a disturbance had developed off the New Jersey coast and storm warnings were posted from Cape Hatteras to the Delaware breakwater. It appeared that New England states, most sections of which were swept by blizzards yesterday, would be hit by the combined forces of the coastal disturbance and the storm moving in from Pennsylvania.

Mercury Falls
A heavy, soft snow, driven by a 20-mile-an-hour wind, began to fall in New York City early today. The temperature was 29.

A mass of warm Pacific air, following in the wake of the mid-western storm, kept temperatures in lower central states generally above normal, precluding additional hardships. But it added the hazard of floods. In southern Indiana the White river was within three feet of flood stage and in Arkansas the Ouachita, White, St. Francis, Little and Black rivers, fed by melting snow and rain, were over their banks in some sections.

Chicago was paralyzed until last night by a blizzard which blanketed it with 14.8 inches of snow. It was the worst storm in the city since 1931.

Brulatour Faces Court Battle

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Jules Brulatour, a trifle stiff-necked from a bullet wound, appeared in felony court today to answer charges of illegal possession of a gun but instead police took the film magazine in his own limousine to be fingerprinted and photographed.

The fingerprinting process is required prior to arraignment. At police headquarters the 68-year-old capitalist and husband of former actress, Hope Hampton, was photographed and his picture added to the rogues' gallery and then was to be taken back to court.

Brulatour was shot in his Park Avenue home on the night of Jan. 22. He insisted he was cleaning a pistol when it was discharged but the district attorney's office is proceeding on a theory that someone else was holding the weapon at the time of the shooting.

New Bill Extends Tax Moratorium

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 31.—(UP)—Extension of the delinquent tax moratorium and redemption without penalties of delinquent property were provided today in two emergency measures signed by Gov. Culbert L. Olson.

The acts extend the present tax moratorium to Aug. 20, 1939, and re-enact the 10 annual installment plan from payment of delinquent taxes without penalties to April 20, 1940.

Other emergency measures bearing the governor's signature amend building regulations to conform to federal standards to facilitate housing projects in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda counties, and appropriate $35,392 for the legislative council bureau and $2015 to make up a deficiency for the state code commission.

GEORGE BURNS GETS YEAR'S SUSPENDED SENTENCE, FINE

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(UP)—George Burns, stage, screen and radio comedian and member of the team of Burns and Allen, received a suspended sentence of a year and a day and an $8000 fine in federal court today on his plea of guilty to smuggling jewelry.

He was placed on probation for a year and a day. His case disposed of, Burns will be available as a witness against his radio and film rival, Jack Benny, federal authorities said. Benny, indicted a month after Burns, was accused of "possessing, concealing and transporting $2131 worth of bediamonded jewelry" for his wife and partner, Mary Livingstone.

To Stand Trial
Refusing to follow Burns' suit, Benny pleaded not guilty and said he would stand trial. His trial is tentatively set for Feb. 14.

WITNESS AGAINST N. E. WEST FACES COURT IN FRAUD CASE

E. K. Wood, of Riverside, who appeared as principal witness against Supervisor N. E. West when the latter was tried on grand jury ouster charges last April, was himself accused of fraudulent real estate operations today, in a superior court damage suit filed by Mabel E. McCarter, of Ontario, who owns two lots at Laguna Beach. She sued Wood for $2578.56.

The McCarter charges against Wood are based upon the same matter which formed the basis of Wood's accusations against Supervisor West, namely proceedings for the liquidation of delinquent bonds upon Broadway improvement district in Laguna Beach.

West Acquitted
In fact, according to the McCarter complaint, she first learned of the asserted fraud by Wood by hearing testimony at the West trial, regarding her own property dealings with Wood.

Supervisor West was acquitted by the jury, but Wood, his accuser, became involved in the present case through testimony developed at that time. Attorney B. Z. McKinney, of Santa Ana, who defended West, now represents Mabel McCarter in the action against Wood.

Plaintiff alleges that on May 1, 1936, Wood told her that unless she gave him trust deeds of $700 each on her two lots, they would be foreclosed by owners of the delinquent bonds; but if she gave him the trust deeds he would advance the necessary $100 to the bond holders.

He had no intention of advancing the $1400 and did not do so.

Pioneer Orange Man Is Dead

Henry H. Loptien, 89, a resident of Orange since 1883, passed away at his home on North Batavia street today following an illness of over a year. He was one of the founders of St. John's Lutheran church in Orange and was one of the city's first councilmen.

His wife, Mrs. Christine Loptien, passed away last March. Funeral arrangements are in charge of the Gilgoly Funeral home of Orange.

Wind Topples Huge Derrick

Workers today were putting the finishing touches on the repair job of the huge oil well derrick, moved from its original location by Sam Talbert during the last week. The derrick, near its new location, blew over during the heavy windstorm that swept the coast during the week-end and a number of its supports were broken. No report of the fall of the rigging was made until noon today.

FEAR CLASH ON FRONTIER

PERPIGNAN, French-Spanish Border, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Five thousand French troops were sent to the border today, increasing the frontier guard to 12,800 men overnight and causing reports that the entire frontier region would be placed on a virtual war footing, guarded by 50,000 troops.

A French officer predicted that the frontier would be put on a "war basis" in either of two cases: First, if the Nationalist advance brings Italian troops to the French border.

Swarm to Border
Second, if rumors of Italian intentions of putting a landing party ashore at a point on the Spanish Loyalist coast materializes.

The present forces guarding the border to control the thousands of hungry, terrified refugees swarming in from Catalonia border towns and passes across the Pyrenees consists of 2000 Senegalese; 3000 infantry from Narbonne and Montpellier; 1000 motorized cavalry from Lirages; 1800 mobile guards; 2000 Hussars from Tarbes and 3000 infantry from Albi.

Disarm Loyalists
Among refugees arriving here today were Juan Molas, former governor of Barcelona and high commissioner to Spanish Morocco; Edward Ortega Gasset, former prosecutor of the republic; Jose Vega, former civil governor of Toledo, and Jaime Aguide, former mayor of Barcelona.

The troops movement was precipitated by the increasing hostility of fleeing Loyalist soldiers, who objected to being disarmed. Many of them struggled with French guards for possession of their guns.

Meanwhile, the ministers of health and the interior arrived.

BURGLARS STRIKE TWICE AT CYPRESS

Burglars who broke into Mildred M. Bush's Cypress cafe, Cypress, Sunday night or early yesterday by prying open the front door and obtaining more than $50 worth of merchandise and cash, apparently were the same who repeated their act last night at La Rue general store and meat market, located near the cafe. The store-meat market burglary netted nearly $200 worth of merchandise and cash, and four life insurance policies totalling $4000. Sheriff's officers were asked to investigate.

At the cafe, the burglars obtained several boxes of cigars, three cases of beer, five gallons of wine, then carried a marble machine and cigarette machine across the highway and smashed them, obtaining all money and cigars. The same cafe was burglarized before. At the general store-meat market, the burglars entered by a window, obtained $13.50 in cash, three loins of pork, seven pounds of bacon, 10 pounds of pickers and other meats, the grocery cash register containing some cash and the insurance policies, 36 pairs of silk hose, 15 boxes of men's socks, 12 dress shirts, three manicure sets, 15 packages of cheese and scores of cans of food, including honey, shrimp, oysters, soup, coffee, spinach and tamales.

$30,000 Damage Suits On Trial

Jury trial of damage suits aggregating more than $30,000 was in progress today before Superior Judge H. G. Ames, with Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Hart, of Orange, defendants in actions brought by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Savage and by Mary Corrick.

Both suits were based on injuries received by Mary Corrick and Mrs. Russell in a traffic accident last September 19 at the intersection of Culver avenue and Orange street, in Orange. Mrs. Russell sued for $15,000 and her husband asked $25 and other special damages. Mary Corrick sought judgment for $15,025.

SOLONS DROP PROBE AS U. S. JUDGE RESIGNS UNDER FIRE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Chairman Hatton W. Summers, D., Tex., of the house judiciary committee said today that the resignation of Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton of New York "terminates the interest of this committee" in any possible impeachment.

Manton's resignation, to be effective by March 1, was enroute to President Roosevelt.

Continue Probe
While Summers' committee will drop its projected inquiry, the justice department and District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey continued investigations of charges that Manton received loans from persons representing parties interested in cases before him.

Summers qualified his statement with the phrase "unless there are new developments," but in the same breath he added it would be "ridiculous" to consider impeachment even though Manton does not leave the bench until March 1.

WPA Bill Up For Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Senate and House conferees today sent the $725,000,000 WPA appropriation bill back to both houses for final passage after ironing out all differences except Senate elimination of a limit on relief pay differentials between north and south.

House conferees refused to agree to the Senate's elimination of a provision setting a maximum of 25 per cent in wage differentials between the north and south. The issues must be voted upon again in both houses.

Modify Changes
Modifications were made in amendments written into the measure by the Senate to outlaw politics in relief. The conferees struck out a phrase that would have prevented contributions by federal employees to such political functions as the Jackson Day dinners, principal money raising project of the Democratic party.

As the bill came from conference, aliens would be denied relief unless they had become United States citizens. The conferees agreed on an amendment authorizing

NAME GAMBLER IN MEGLADDY CASE

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 31.—(UP)—Alameda county grand jurors recessed for one day today before plunging again into their investigation of varied activities of Mark Lee Megladdy while serving as secretary to former Governor Frank F. Merriam.

Yesterday's testimony, as revealed by District Attorney Ralph Hoyt, brought forward the names of Bill Graham, widely known Reno gambling figure; Publisher George Payne of San Jose; and George Kelly, one of Merriam's former campaign managers.

Recalls Visits
Clarence Leddy, paroled San Jose slayer, whose commutation of sentence to time served broke the current scandal, introduced the name of Graham, Payne and Kelly into the record.

Leddy said Graham had visited him in prison several times and each time left $50 for Leddy's commissary fund and that Payne, a friend for a number of years, and Kelly also had visited him.

After being paroled Leddy said he wanted a pardon to "go into business" but insisted he did not know who put up the money assertedly passed in efforts to obtain it.

European Diplomats Study Hitler Speech

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Discrepancy between a semi-official English translation of Adolf Hitler's Reichstag speech and the official German language text, giving his own words, left diplomatic quarters in doubt today as to the extent to which Hitler had committed himself to support Benito Mussolini's "aspirations."

Called By Death

A former city councilman and prominent in Santa Ana civic affairs during his residence in Orange county, Hubert H. Dale, 60, of San Diego, above, died at his home today. He had been a resident of Santa Ana for 24 years before moving to San Diego and was a director of the chamber of commerce and a member of the Santa Ana Rotary club.

HUBERT H. DALE IS CALLED BY DEATH

As the result of a paralytic stroke death came today to Hubert H. Dale, 60, a former resident of Santa Ana and Fullerton and lately of San Diego.

During his 24 years residence in Orange county Mr. Dale was prominent in civic affairs and was the owner of the Dale Hardware company.

In 1919 he was elected city councilman and was a director of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce. He was a former member of the Santa Ana Rotary club.

Born at Fairmont, Minnesota, Mr. Dale came to Santa Ana in 1912 at which time he started Dale and Company, auto-body and sheetmetal shop. He was later head of the O. H. Egge company.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Woolman mortuary in San Diego.

Jurors Review Corruption Case

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 31.—(UP)—The Sacramento county grand jury met today to review the voluminous testimony taken during its recent investigation of so-called legislative corruption.

The jury re-convened to hear reports from its committees, but Secretary A. E. Stephens said the body probably would go into the testimony taken during the investigation. It was the testimony of the jury on which Howard Philbrick, San Francisco investigator, reported to former Gov. Frank F. Merriam shortly after Merriam left office. Philbrick's report was said to contain "sensational disclosures."

The contempt case against William Silliman, Los Angeles politician who refused to testify before the grand jury, was dismissed by Superior Judge Dal M. Lemmon on motion of Sacramento County District Attorney Otis D. Babcock. Babcock said Silliman, ill in a Los Angeles hospital, was willing to appear when able.

Delay Action In Fee Suit

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Trial of a suit to force payment of architectural fees to Walker and Eisen, Los Angeles architects, for plans of the new Southern California prison at Chino, was postponed today until Feb. 14, as negotiations to settle out of court continued.

Chairman John Gee Clark of the board of prison terms and paroles said it was possible the action still can be settled without payment of the suit, in which it is contended that private architects were being paid for a service kiting act will be tested by final disposition of the case as well as the state division of architecture could have performed at no cost.

URGES PEACE CONFERENCE

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain called on European nations tonight to consider a halt in the arms race and hold a general conference to assure peace.

In a speech to the House of Commons replying to Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's speech of last night, Chamberlain said:

"What is wanted, is not merely words which indicate a desire for peace. What is wanted is willingness to enter into arrangements for, if not disarmament, at least limitation."

Must Be Unity
Then he amplified his point that such a conference would be futile unless the nations entering into it are determined on its success.

"After such a long period of unsettlement and anxiety," the prime minister continued, "confidence is not easily and quickly established. If a spirit corresponding to our own is found elsewhere, this country would not be unsympathetic. It would be ready to make its contribution."

In a significant reference to Hitler's speech before the Reichstag yesterday, Chamberlain said:

"Nazi 'Need Peace' "I very definitely got the impression that it was not the speech of a man who is preparing to

HEAR PROTESTS TO WAGNER LABOR ACT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(UP)—The Senate labor committee today decided to hold public hearings on amendments to the Wagner labor relations act proposed by the American Federation of Labor and introduced by Sen. David I. Walsh, D., Mass.

Before the hearings begin, other amendments to the disputed labor act will be introduced. The committee sessions thus will become the first battleground for threshing out of the issues.

Seen As Throttle
The AFL amendments would give employers the right to seek elections among their workers and to comment on union questions, would curtail the board's powers to set aside labor contracts, and would require it to give craft groups bargaining power.

Sen. Edward Burke, D., Neb., and others are expected to offer amendments even more drastically restricting the board's powers. Business organizations are overwhelmingly in favor of changing the act, while labor is divided, the Congress of Industrial Organizations opposing any changes.

State Official Is Divorced

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 31.—(UP)—Mrs. Bernice M. Jordan today held a divorce from Frank C. Jordan, elderly secretary of state, because, her complaint charged, Jordan "humiliated and reviled" her in the presence of friends. She charged "extreme cruelty."

Superior Judge Peter J. Shields awarded Mrs. Jordan $100 a month alimony from the 78-year-old state official's $450-a-month salary.

The Jordans were married Feb. 12, 1937, and separated last Jan. 27. It was the second marriage for both. Mrs. Jordan is the former Mrs. Bernice M. Wiley of Arkansas City, Kans.

Fruit Exchange Named In Suit

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 31.—(UP)—The state sought today to force the California Fruit Exchange to pay assessments levied on fresh Bartlett pears, in a suit on trial in Superior Judge Dal M. Lemmon's court. The fruit exchange is accused of avoiding payment of $1011 on pears during August, 1937.

Under the California marketing act, an assessment of three cents per 50-pound lug of fresh pears is levied on all pears packed for shipment. Proceeds are earmarked for advertising and promoting purposes. Attorneys say the marketing act will be tested by final disposition of the case as well as the state division of architecture could have performed at no cost.

U. S. Examines Witnesses In WPA-Election Case

SAYS WORKERS' VOTES FORCED

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 31.—(UP)—The government called witnesses today in an effort to show that WPA workers were forced to "vote right" in a political feud involving Sen. Dennis Chavez. Among 35 persons on trial for alleged conspiracy to manipulate WPA funds for political purpose are his sister and son-in-law.

Federal Prosecutor Everett Grantham told the jury that overt acts violating the Works Progress Administration code had been committed on three occasions. He expected to prove:

What He Contends

That a conspiracy among the defendants, including Mrs. Anita Tafoya, Chavez' sister, and his son-in-law, Former Assistant U. S. Attorney Stanley Miller, had existed for a year and a half, to use WPA employment for political gain;

That in January 1937 at a meeting in Miller's home, the Rio Grande Social Club was organized to conduct dances for funds, and that WPA workers who did not buy tickets were dismissed;

Political Demonstration

That a caravan of WPA workers was sent to Santa Fe for a political demonstration against an emergency primary law, recommended by Gov. Clyde Tingley.

That records were falsified to show that these workers were on the job when actually they were in Santa Fe.

The misuse of WPA labor and funds which Grantham alleged purportedly occurred during a campaign against a constitutional amendment to allow state officials more than two consecutive terms; in an Albuquerque city charter election last April, and last August in a campaign to obviate the state nominating conventions. Tingley was aligned against Chavez, Rep. John J. Dempsey, and other state leaders in each campaign. He lost them all.

SEAL BEACH VOTES MARCH 7 ON OIL DRILLING PERMITS

Ballots cast on March 7 will determine whether or not oil drilling will be permitted in the City of Seal Beach, according to terms of a stringent limiting and regulatory ordinance adopted by the Seal Beach city council in a called session here Monday night.

All areas, residential, business and unzoned lying south of Coast highway to the ocean front, and a strip 150 feet wide lying north of Coast highway from the western to eastern city limits, will be closed by terms of the ordinance.

Strict Regulations

While closing all of the residential and business section to drilling, the ordinance establishes strict regulations for drilling on the area north of Coast highway in case oil development should ever be attempted there. The area, while lying within the city limits, extends about one mile north of the intersection of Bay boulevard and Coast highway, and belongs to the L. W. Hellman ranch, the Los Alamitos Land company, and a 24 acre block to James Arnerich. The ground was tested by the Associated Oil company several years ago.

The site on which Mitchell Trustees, Ltd., of Long Beach have sought a permit to drill a 7000 foot well is included in the area where no drilling will be permitted if the ordinance is adopted. The one well drilling in the city limits is on the Hellman ranch, about three miles from the residential and business section.

Requirements Given

Both the Associated Oil company wells and the Continental Oil company wells, located in the so-called Seal Beach field are several miles from the city limits on the northeast side, while the 1000 acre Union Oil company lease where a wild cat well is to be drilled, lies three-quarters of a mile east of the eastern city limits.

Voting on March 7 will be restricted to registered voters who have registered at least 40 days before the date of election, according to Mrs. Oillie B. Padrick, city registrar. The city will be one consolidated precinct, with the city hall, the one polling place.

JUNIOR GROUP TO SEND 'ENVOY'

In the future, every meeting of the Santa Ana city council will be attended by a representative of the Santa Ana junior chamber of commerce, and the first request to be submitted by the organization is that signs be erected at Orana and Flower streets directing traffic into the city that might otherwise be diverted at the Santa Ana bridge detour.

This was the essence of a resolution passed by the junior chamber meeting last night at the Green Cat when more than 60 members watched a motion picture and heard an address on the history of the water department by Councilman Joe Smith.

Committee Named
Adrian Marks was appointed chairman of the committee that will attend the council meetings. The picture, entitled, "Main Street" was shown by Robert Redfern, of Long Beach.

Jury Silent On Menton Request

The grand jury's attitude toward a requested probe into official expenditures of former District Attorney W. F. Menton, remained undisclosed today following an all day session by the inquisitorial body, at which the Menton case was supposed to have been laid before the grand jury by the county board of supervisors.

The supervisors already had started District Attorney George F. Holden on an investigation of the same matters, and some quarters believed that the grand jury therefore would decline to duplicate Holden's efforts; especially since the grand jury is believed to be virtually ready to conclude its work and file a report.

MYSTERY CASE CLUE IS FOUND

First clue which may lead to the uncovering of the mystery which puzzled sheriff's officers yesterday was given by Mrs. Dan Coplin, 914 Main street, Huntington Beach, last night after reading of the finding of a box of blood-soaked, knife-slashed men's work clothes in a carton along the bay near the Bolsa Chico gun club, Sunset Beach.

Mrs. Coplin reported to the officers she saw a young man toss the box of clothing over the bridge railing Saturday noon after stopping his car on the wrong side of Coast highway while traveling toward San Diego.

Points To L. B.

"The man was young and wore sports clothes," Mrs. Coplin said. "He suddenly drove to the wrong side of the highway, stopped quickly, hurled the box away and hurried on in his car. The car was a 1937 or 1938 Dodge, I think."

"The clothing might have been blood-stained and torn for many reasons," Undersheriff Robert Sandon declared. "If a crime has been committed, however, its location points toward the Long Beach area. Anyone having further information regarding this clothing should contact officials and thus assist in the investigation." The clothing was found Saturday afternoon by the young son of Andrew Johnson, gun club watchman.

History Recalled In Man's Arrest

History of the days when the Spanish nobles imported Negroes from Africa to Nassau, British West Indies, was recalled yesterday with the booking of a wanderer-to-far-places, Hugh Patton, 52-year-old Negro transient, native of Nassau.

Arrested in Anaheim by Police Chief James Bouldin on a vagrancy charge after he was found wandering about the city, Patton was ordered to jail for 30 days by City Judge Frank Tausch. Patton, well-educated, told many interesting stories of his early history, said he made money before he decided on traveling to see the world.

Musician Booked On Driving Count

Harold R. Moore, 47-year-old musician, of 325 Marine avenue, Balboa, was booked at county jail at 11 p. m. yesterday by sheriff's officers, who arrested him on a drunk driving charge two miles south of the Eddie Martin airport on Newport Boulevard.

Moore, who was pronounced "moderately intoxicated," purportedly was driving a car he borrowed to try out with the idea of possibly purchasing it but officers said he was too intoxicated to remember the person who loaned it to him. The car had no registration.

REPORTS COAT STOLEN

A $22 sheepskin coat which Bud Thompson, 1416 North Main, left on a bale of hay in a barn he rents at 17th and Santiago, was sought by police today as stolen. Thompson reported the coat was left in the barn after he returned from a horseback ride Sunday night. He discovered it to be gone yesterday. The coat is of black leather, lined with black wool.

WINE CONFISCATED

Called to West First street last night on report a man who may have been drinking had driven his car into a ditch. Officers William Nielsen and Ernest Zimmerman learned the "man" was a woman. She admitted having a few drinks of wine. Her brother came to the scene and drove her home after the officers confiscated a bottle of wine found in the car.

'BACK TO FARM' PLANS MAPPED

COOLIDGE, Ariz., Jan. 31. (UP)—The federal government's "back to the farm" experiment in large-scale, cooperative agriculture here will be operating on a profitable basis within the next year, R. E. Beatty, the farm's manager, said today.

Reporting the project, in which the U. S. Farm Security Administration has spent more than $600,000, operated at a loss of $888.82 during the last nine months of 1938, Beatty said. The workers were "celebrating" the success of the undertaking.

Already Paying

The audit of the farm's activities showed that although no dividend was possible for the 57 families selected to run the project in partnership with the government, the principal investments were already paying.

Interest was paid on $85,000 borrowed from the FSA to purchase equipment and stock and a rental of more than $16,000 was paid for the land and modern homes originally bought by the government. The rental figure, Beatty said, was $7,700 in excess of a minimum stipulated.

As "Testing Ground"

Production of farm and dairy products netted the project nearly $70,000.

J. A. Waldron, state FSA director, said he was "more than satisfied" with the report, pointing out that a shortage of water allowed cultivation of only half of the 3,600 acres and that the original costs will not have to be repeated again.

The Coolidge experiment was chosen by the government as a "testing ground" for resettlement of migratory workers and was criticized by its first manager, R. A. Faul, as "communistic."

Although ancient Rome had numerous earthquakes, they never caused any outstanding destruction. Some historians contend that many of the Roman palaces and temples said to have been destroyed by barbarians between the 5th and 9th centuries really were shaken down by quakes.

Friends for 20 Years Meet

TUSTIN, Jan. 31.—A group of friends who 20 years ago were residents of her neighborhood were entertained at a recent delightful party given by Mrs. Vera Comer at her home.

Mrs. Addie Crane and Mrs. Addie Trickey were one o'clock luncheon guests preceding the afternoon reunion when reminiscing and a social period were enjoyed before the tea hour. Present for the happy affair were Mesdames Jack Casey, Sally Chandler, John Scheffer, Grace Daniels, Mollie Hubbard, E. E. Smith, Ora Vance, Walter Huntley, David Forney, John Pieper, Cora Lee, Joe Machado and Miss Hazelbelle Comer.

Handkerchiefs, as we know them today, are a comparatively recent addition to man's wardrobe. At one time, before the days of dentistry, ladies carried dainty lace handkerchiefs to hide their decayed teeth when they smiled. Long before that, however, fox tails were carried, as combination handkerchiefs and fans.

OVER THE TRANSOM

With old photographs and an old hat as the price of admission, friends and members of the First Presbyterian church of Fullerton held an unusual party at the Owen Richelleu home at 113 Rose, Fullerton. Among the pictures, shown on a screen by the host, were 'teen age photos of Dean William T. Boyce of Fullerton District Junior college, and Miss Minnie Morse, religious education director of the church, and prominent in county church circles for many years.

Many with the jitters, ranging from the mild manners of the Lambeth Walk to the fastest jiggling jitterbug, participated in the first of a series of free dances Saturday night at the Huntington Beach Woman's clubhouse. Favoring modern dance addicts, the affair was sponsored by Verne A. Nelson and Maurice E. Young.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated. You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. You won't have to endure constipation, you can avoid it. Eat All-Bran daily, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

FULLERTON POLICE CAPTURE TWO SAFE-CRACKING "MOBS"

FULLERTON, Jan. 31.—Fullerton police department was responsible for the apprehension of two complete safe-cracking "mobs" which had burglarized nearly 100 safes and stores throughout Southern California including the Orkin department store and Bowen feed store in Fullerton, it was learned Monday.

Signed confessions of robbing Bowen feed store was obtained from Lewis Martin by Special Investigator Dale Richardson and Patrolman Jack Raynor of the Fullerton police squad, while Martin was being held in the Los Angeles city jail. Martin also confessed other burglaries and will be prosecuted in San Bernardino.

Following the Orkin department store robbery and safe-cracking attempt in Fullerton on December 15, George Buchanan and Andrew Nastase were arrested in Los Angeles. Their arrests also explained the Bowen feed store robbery in which $94 was allegedly taken.

Martin Arrested
Martin was arrested in San Bernardino for possession of suspicious-looking tools and handed over to the Los Angeles police. Fullerton police then questioned Martin in connection with the two robberies committed in Fullerton December 15 and obtained the signed confession which caused the San Bernardino police to link the evidence with crimes committed there. Martin was returned to San Bernardino for prosecution.

Before the Orkin department store robbery, Patrolmen Raynor and Ralph Worley took the license number of a suspicious-looking automobile in Fullerton. The store was robbed the night of December 15, and the two policemen immediately sent the license number to be checked in Los Angeles. When Fullerton police, aided by the Los Angeles detectives, George Chilson, Harry Burch and Rodney Barber, followed up the license-plate lead, they apprehended the suspects and took them into custody.

Many Los Angeles safe-cracking cases have also been solved by the confessions obtained by the Fullerton police and the arrest of men of the two safe-cracking rings. Martin was reportedly one of the best safe-crackers in California and the leader of a gang of experts.

Confession Obtained
Confessions revealed the location of parts of an Ontario laundry safe which had been chiseled out of a concrete wall with the help of a sledge hammer to be on the San Fernando ranch near Pomona where they had been taken in a stolen laundry truck.

Investigator Richardson found Chief Pierson of Fullerton found burned papers which had been taken from the safe in an incinerator on the ranch. Parts of the safe concrete was also found on the ranch. The men had used a torch to cut the iron safe in pieces which were later scattered over San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

The list of jobs revealed by the signed confession that Martin made were a Pomona lumber yard safe, $3000; two safes in San Diego, a liquor store for $1500 and a market for $450; the Ontario laundry safe $140; a Pomona market for 30 cases of cigars; Fullerton, Bowen feed store for $94 and the San Bernardino robbery which is now being investigated.

Andrew Nastase, blow torch operator, is being tried on additional burglary and safe-cracking crimes in Los Angeles. He was formerly sentenced to from five to 14 years. George Buchanan is serving a one-year sentence in Orange county jail for second degree burglary.

GABLE, SHEARER STAR TOMORROW

Clark Gable and Norma Shearer will be seen together again tomorrow night when the West Coast screens Robert Sherwood's Pulitzer prize-winning play, "Idiot's Delight." The original story remains almost as it was on the stage. Gable, the hooper, and Norma, the vaudeville girl, meet in Omaha, where they fall lightly in love and then part. She is ambitious and presently finds herself in Europe as a phony countess. The American hooper on tour meets her again and recognition is mutual. They resume the affair where they left off in Omaha, and at last recognize real love. Gable's song and dance number, "Puttin' on the Ritz" with his six glamour girls is one of the high spots of this long-awaited Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. A noteworthy cast includes Edward Arnold, Charles Coburn, Joseph Schildkraut, Burgess Meredith, Laura Hope Crews and Skeets Gallagher. Jimmie Fidler rated the picture four-bell.

The companion picture, entitled "While New York Sleeps," is a fast-moving mystery of those reckless roving reporters, Michael Whalen and Chick Chandler, who will be remembered for their clever sleuthing in "Time Out for Murder." Pretty Jean Rogers shares feature honors as the winsome small town girl who dances in the chorus of a night club and doubles as the object of Whalen's affections.

Showing for the last times to-night is Mervyn LeRoy's "Dramatic School," starring the Academy Award winner, Luise Rainer, and Paulette Goddard. The story traces the fight of a girl factory worker to win triumphs on the stage against overwhelming odds. The second feature, "Charlie Chan in Honolulu," brings to the screen for the first time a new Chan, Sidney Toler.

Avas Wins $200 Claim In Court
George Avas, of Santa Ana, yesterday won his $200.15 claim against the Auto Indemnity Exchange at a hearing before Superior Judge George K. Scovel, which reversed a prior decision against Avas in Santa Ana justice court.

Avas had left his car in the parking lot at El Sombbrero cafe, south of Anaheim, where it was struck by some unknown object, causing the oil to drain out of the crankcase. Unaware of this Avas later drove the car several miles, when its motor "froze." The insurance company assertedly refused to pay his claim.

THIS IS FANTASTIC! THE CHILD'S CAREER WILL BE RUINED IF SHE'S TAKEN FROM HER DADDY BOB!

QUIET, PLEASE!

NOW, MRS. REKAF—YOU SAY DOLLY'S PARENTS WERE BOTH KILLED IN A MOTOR CRASH WHILE TOURING PANAMA, WHEN THE CHILD WAS TWO YEARS OLD. WHY DIDN'T YOU STEP FORWARD AT THAT TIME TO CLAIM DOLLY?

JUDGE, MY HUSBAND AND I WERE LIVING IN SOUTH AMERICA. HE HATED CHILDREN AND WOULDN'T HEAR OF MY TAKING DOLLY, SO SHE WAS SENT TO THE ORPHAN HOME. BUT LAST MONTH MY HUSBAND DIED!

SO I GRABBED THE FIRST BOAT NORTH—AND NOW MY LITTLE DEAR IS TO HAVE THE TENDER LOVE AND CARE THAT ONLY A WOMAN CAN GIVE!

G. G. COUPLE TAKE VOWS ON FRIDAY

GARDEN GROVE, Jan. 31.—The Free Methodist church of Garden Grove was the setting on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock for the wedding of Miss Grace Gleason, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gleason, and Johnny Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy.

Preceding the rites which were read by the Rev. James B. Abbott, pastor of the church, Mrs. Lillian Abbott, of Long Beach, sang, "Bells of St. Mary," and "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Edna Hebestreit, who also played the wedding march as the bridal party entered the church. The altar was banked with greenery and baskets of lilies. Candles in the spaced candelabra were lighted by the Misses Alada Franklin and Meryl Miller, of Fullerton, just in advance of the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Jess R. Wade, was lovely in a white satin gown with train and veil. Her bouquet was fashioned of white sweet peas and hyacinths and tied with a bow of white satin ribbon.

Miss Frances Fogle, student of U. S. C., was maid of honor, and Miss Irene Murphy, sister of the bridegroom, bridesmaid. Each wore formal gowns of blue and carried sweet peas in pastel shades.

Serving as best man was Gene Coles, of Albion, Ill., and ushers were George Nugent, of Leevining, Calif.; Keith Oviatt, of Smethport, Pa., all students at Fullerton Junior college, and Harold Dodson, of Long Beach. NEW WESTMINSTER, Jan. 31.—A new lease has just been let by C. J. Curtis, owner of the kennels at New Westminster, the new kennels proprietor being Mrs. Geraldine Hennessy of North Hollywood and the name of the former Kurtisky Kennels is "Gerassy Kennels."

Fifty dogs have been brought in to the kennels, a few of them boarders and Mr. Curtis is leaving his Doberman Pinschers here, also.

Mrs. Hennessy specializes in the breeding of fine collies and has a number of champions, one of which, "Bellhaven Blackbird," a five-year-old dog, was until recently undefeated champion. Champion "Gaudy Gown" is another of the finest in the kennels and both are exhibited frequently at dog shows. A champion Welsh Terrier, "Winnie of Wilgor" is also owned by Mrs. Hennessy and there are also smooth Fox Terriers among her high bred dogs.

Jim Lewis who has given up his kennel lease here has moved his Selyham dogs to Long Beach.

'MARCH OF DIMES' DRIVE IS SUCCESS
LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 31.—With the "March of Dimes," local drive against infantile paralysis, closing tonight, indications are that Laguna Beach has again exceeded its quota of the Orange County campaign. Three prominent residents of Laguna Beach, themselves recovered from the scourge of poliomyelitis, have aided their appeals to the populace to respond to the drive. The three citizens are Miss Josephine Hibbs, prominent musician, Cleo Allen Hibbs, composer, pianist, and head of the choral activities of Community Presbyterian church and William S. Caldwell, county courthouse employee. A joint letter, signed by them, reviews the battle being constantly waged against the inroads of the dread disease; the long convalescence and after-treatment necessitated; and the importance of keeping up what is now acknowledged to be a winning fight, in the light of increased control of the disease. A committee of prominent citizens, representing every walk of life, is assisting Mrs. Roy M. Ropp, Laguna Beach chairman, in winding up the closing hours of the drive.

BRITISH GENERAL AT LAGUNA BEACH
LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 31.—Sojourning quietly in Laguna Beach for a three-months' rest, is Brigadier-General E. Hewlett, of the British Army, whose service record is an especially distinguished one. Gen. Hewlett, who bears the letters D.S.O., C.M.G., and C.B.E., denoting Distinguished Service Order, Cross of St. Michael and St. George, and Companion of the British Empire, arrived in the U.S. just following Christmas Day. Upon his arrival, Gen. Hewlett, in an informal interview, expressed the opinion that the "likelihood of European war is strong," adding that if such a war does come "your country won't be able to keep out of it."

The distinguished soldier, whose service record included general staff duties with the British Army during the World War, also saw service in India, and at the port of Aden, on the Red Sea.

Expressing further opinion on world conditions, General Hewlett stated: "I think that Mr. Chamberlain has done wisely in keeping us out of trouble as he did. Treaties with the totalitarian powers mean little, apparently. Mussolini agreed to withdraw from Spain, but is sending not only munitions and supplies, but also troops to aid the Franco forces. Russia may hold Germany's attention for some time, but anybody in the know in England will tell you that anything may happen at any time."

Asked if German is not involved in Britain's troubles in the Holy Land, General Hewlett said: "Of course, but do not forget the Italians—those fellows are in there, too."

General Hewlett, during his stay in Laguna Beach, is living at 990 Ocean Front.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP
If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties. BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep. So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to get "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders. Yarn and Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Evidences of slackening in business are causing no alarm among Mr. Roosevelt's economic navigators in the crowd's nest here.

Their charts say figures for January will show a more-than-seasonal decline which, they expect, will carry through February 15, then level out. By April 1 they expect to see last year's climb resumed. Their old prediction of a 25 per cent business improvement before the year end is still good.

Their courage is strengthened by the prospect that government expenditures, now running $275 millions to $300 millions a month, will soon be increasing. These may hit $400 millions a month in the late spring and summer, when the bulk of public works and housing dollars are rolling.

Another encouraging prospect is residential building. Prices have dropped some. Rents are fairly steady. This makes a situation more favorable to private building than in some years.

Heavy sighing in the stock market is being publicly attributed to the European situation. When market men want to fear something, they generally favor Europe with their apprehensions. Most of the crowd in the government crowd's nest are also paying tribute to European possibilities by affixing "if nothing happens in Europe" to every economic calculation. However 75 per cent of them do not expect things to happen in Europe.

Frankly, they attribute the current reaction to several minor causes, including a slight overproduction. Certain inventories bulged (steel, textiles.) Raw material prices were not strong (the sterling decline lessened British Empire demand.) January is always a slack month. Farm prices were low but no one expects them to go lower. You can't have steel production doubling in six months, without a pause.

These are not major ailments, no permanent influences, not very important influences if you think we are in a major cycle of improvement, as everyone here does.

Unless Wall Streeters blow themselves down with their own sighs, unless that always impending "something" falls in Europe, it stands to reason, under the Washington process, that domestic business cannot go anywhere but up.

A 5 per cent decline in industrial production probably will be registered this month, as you will see from the following monthly chart.

Each factor is based on 1923-25 averages as 100; each is adjusted for seasonal variations so as to represent the percentage of normality for the periods stated. Notice well the strength in every other factory except production.

Weather vanes — It seems impossible for the railroads to avoid ordering much new equipment this year, either on their own or through RFC. They are abandoning cars all the time, not making replacements, and had barely enough to handle the good traffic last fall. . . . composite guess of government guessers is the first quarter will be just slightly below the first quarter of last year. . . . initial drop in business here as foreigners cashed their American holdings. It meant a five months drop in 1914. But this time England and France are likely to start ordering equipment here immediately.

Remember France is even now arranging to buy 600 planes here. . . .

335 STUDENTS LISTED AT J. C.

A total of 335 students had completed registration at Santa Ana Junior college yesterday in the first day of matriculation for the second semester. The figure as compared with the second semester last year shows an increase of 40 students, when 295 had signed up.

Sophomores had been scheduled to register yesterday, with freshmen signing up today. More registrations are expected during the week, officials indicated.

Urged to Register
With classes starting Wednesday, students who desire to attend the college are urged to register immediately. Although yesterday's figure showed an increase over the corresponding period last year, it was pointed out that many had not registered who were scheduled to do so. Threat of rain probably had kept many away, it was cited.

Registration totals are expected to be computed at the end of the week. Today's registration of freshmen and new students is expected to augment the more than 1000 persons who are now attending the college.

Today's registration will be for freshmen and new students. Those with surnames A-K will sign up from 8 to 11 a. m., with those whose last names begin L-Z registering from 1 to 4 p. m.

BUSINESS MEN TO SELECT NOMINEES

Members of a nominating committee named recently by directors of the Business Men's Association will meet Wednesday to select names of 10 members for submission to members as prospective directors, it was announced today by Phil M. Brown, secretary-manager.

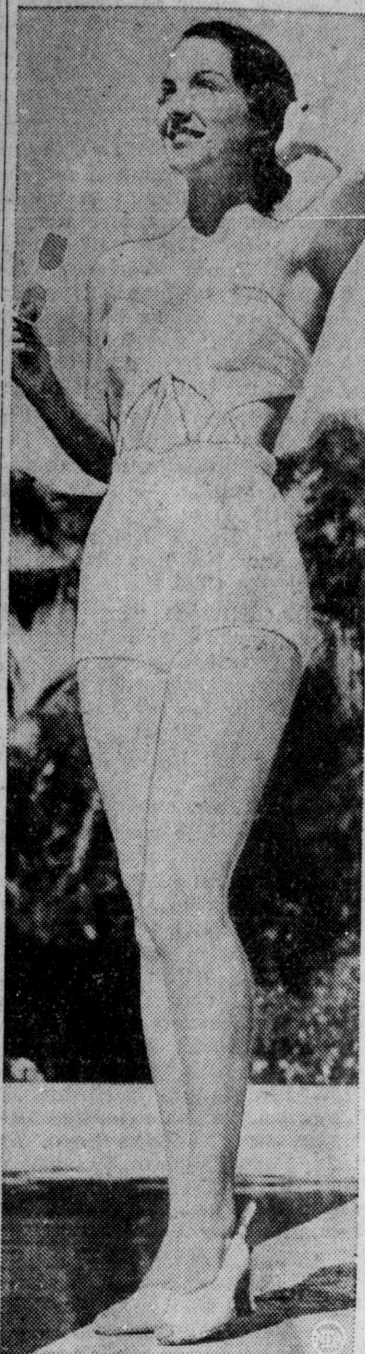

Five new directors will be named to serve with Directors Hugh J. Lowe, George Spielman, C. M. Rowland and Don L. Andrews. Ballots will be mailed out this week.

Election Scheduled
New officers will be selected at a meeting scheduled for February 21. The annual session of the association is slated for March 21. The nominating committee consists of Hugh J. Lowe, George Spielman, Walter Spicer, Dr. J. E. Paul and Mrs. Alice Peterson.

LOCAL BOOKS IN 'FIELDS' LIST

A dozen books printed by the Fine Arts press of the Santa Ana junior college have found their way into the center of things at the World Fair in San Francisco but Orange county may not get the credit.

That was revealed today in a letter from Bruno Lasker, executive of the Golden Gate International Exposition, to Thomas E. Williams, head of the Fine Arts press department. Williams wanted to send or deliver some of the high-priced books from the Fine Arts press to the fair as an Orange county exhibit but funds were not forthcoming.

Placed On Display
However, knowing that George Fields, book store operator in San Francisco, had copies of a dozen of the lower-priced books from the Fine Arts press, Williams wrote Fields, explaining that Lasker had twice sought to have Williams bring or send some of the Fine Arts books to the fair. Fields immediately placed the Fine Arts books on display with others from his store but they will be in the "Fields display," not the "Orange county display," it was said. One of the valuable books, "Seven Questions of Timur," which came off of the local press, will be placed in a glass case and put on display by Fields, he said, but the lower-priced ones will be placed on an open counter so the public may have a close-up look at them. The valuable Fine Arts

BIRTH OF SON BRINGS JOY TO WIDOW OF TRAIN CRASH VICTIM

Sorrow and joy alternated today in tugging at the heart of Mrs. James Vernon Cheyne of 822 Fairview avenue, Santa Ana, as she thought about her late beloved husband, killed in a truck-train crash near Tustin December 2, and then of her four-pound, incubator baby, James Vernon Cheyne, II, born Saturday at Methodist hospital, Los Angeles.

James Vernon Cheyne II and his mother were traveling about three miles per hour when the crash came, derailling the caboose. The accident occurred at one of the county's most dangerous crossings, officials said.

Mrs. Ethel E. Cheyne, grandmother of James Vernon Cheyne II, also a resident of 822 Fairview avenue, said she planned to move her belongings and those of her daughter-in-law to Los Angeles within the next 10 or 12 days and to establish a new home there for the three.

REGISTER CARRIER BOYS ARE INVITED TO THEATER PARTY

Through arrangements made by The Register and the State theater management, all Register carrier boys are invited to attend a theater party for them Friday at 7 p. m. Approximately 75 boys are expected to attend.

The boys are invited to see the complete variety program which includes "In Old Mexico," another Hopalong Cassidy feature starring William Boyd, with George Hayes and Russell Hayden; the first chapter of "Red Barry," thrilling new serial, starring the famous Olympic swimming champion, Buster Crabbe, and three selected short subjects.

In Jail Break
In the Boyd film, "The Fox," the notorious character who figured prominently in the popular "Borderland" a season ago, breaks out of jail bent on revenge against Hopalong and the wealthy Gonzales family of Mexico, who have put him there. How Hoppy thwarts "the Fox" and restores law to the Mexican ranching country offers much fast action entertainment.

In "Red Barry," Crabbe plays the role of the daring detective, bringing the popular newspaper cartoon character to vivid life on the screen. Barry matches his wits with agents of two foreign powers when they try to intercept $2,000,000 in bonds sent to this country to buy fighting planes. When the bonds disappear, Barry trails the suspects, meets them in a terrific battle and almost loses his life. "Mutiny on the Bob," comedy; "Village Blacksmith," cartoon, and world news events also screen.

EXPERT IN COLOR TO STAGE DISPLAY

Phil Dike, of Los Angeles, who is in charge of the color department at the Walt Disney studios in Hollywood, will present the third showing of water colors in the series being presented by the art committee of the Santa Ana library.

Eight of Dike's works will be presented in the exhibition that will be open to the public tomorrow, according to Donald Button, committee secretary, who is in charge of the presentations.

A native of Redlands, Dike this year will exhibit his work at both the San Francisco and New York world's fairs. The local showing will be at the library for the next two weeks.

books are now on display in the "race-book" room of Rembrandt hall, on the Pomona college campus, Claremont, and occupy the center of the exhibit. Williams took them to Claremont upon invitation of school authorities.

Brilliant Boy Likes His Ma, Pa

While three-year-old James David Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Thompson, of 925 French street, has demonstrated mental power and ability far above his age he is still "a real boy." Pictured above is the family with "Jaydee" holding his beloved Book of Presidents from which he has learned to recognize the pictures of every president of the United States.

SANTA ANA BOY, 3, DISPLAYS REMARKABLE MENTAL POWERS

Although laying no claims as a "child prodigy," James David Thompson, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Thompson, 925 French street, nevertheless has exhibited remarkable mental powers during the last six months of his life and still is "all boy."

It was nearly a year ago that a formal bow to his audience. Mrs. Thompson noticed "Jaydee's" ability to quickly learn and hold information of all sorts, born in Osceola, Missouri, now lived in California and that Culbert L. Olson was governor of the state.

DRIVE SPEEDED BY BALLOTING

Directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce today virtually had declared war to bank continuation of the newly created office of county counsel.

New impetus to the campaign being waged by the booster group was added yesterday afternoon at a directors' meeting when it was revealed that 95 per cent of the voters in a referendum conducted by the chamber were opposed to any other than the district attorney's office for handling the county's legal affairs.

Plan Formal Report
A similar number of the voters were also in favor of continued action on the part of the chamber in its fight against the creation of the special counsel.

Howard I. Wood, secretary of the chamber, today is preparing a report of the poll conducted and submitted to the directorate that will be presented to the county board. Included in the report will be the information that, out of 168 ballots returned to the chamber office, 161 were in favor of the district attorney's office doing all of the legal work of the county and 160 were in favor of carrying the fight as far as possible.

Engagement News Told At Sorority Meeting

To her sisters in Delta Chi Sigma sorority, Miss Carol Smith last night revealed her betrothal to Laurence W. Farrar of Tustin, by the charmingly romantic details of the dessert course which she served as opening phase of the sorority meeting in her home, 2397 North Flower street.

Mrs. Herman A. Smith assisted her daughter in the evening's hospitality, which included the presentation of the big box of chocolates, a sorority tradition in connection with engagement news. Announcement was made by scrolls lettered "Carol and Laurence: Summer," upheld by small Cupids posed on candy hearts. There was one for each of the members present, the Misses Alice Martin, Lois Wagner, Vivienne White, Dorothy Baker, Mary Alice White, Dorothy Baker, Lorene Shippe, Helen Paul, Henrietta Run-up, Kay Carter, Mesdames James Newman, Robert Barrett, Corvin Frazee and Lloyd Manderscheid.

Laurence Farrar is the son of Mrs. Mae K. Farrar, and is a rancher of Tustin, so the summer wedding will not take Miss Smith far from her sorority group.

After the excitement of the betrothal news had somewhat subsided, Miss Martin, president, introduced business phases of the sorority meeting. These included plans for early spring events, including a formal dance to come at an early date. More definite decisions regarding the program will be made next Monday night when Mrs. James Newman, 615 East Bishop street, will be hostess to the group.

Surprise Housewarming Held in Maier Home

Planned by a group of out-of-town friends of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Maier was a surprise housewarming Sunday evening in their new home on Lampson Road. This was one of several parties for which the home has been offered setting during the past few weeks.

The self-invited group presented Mr. and Mrs. Maier with a Chipendale coffee table which harmonizes perfectly with the period furnishings of the home. Mrs. Russell Hupp of Long Beach, formerly of this city, had planned the party, which began early in the evening. Buffet supper was served.

Bridge play brought prizes to Mrs. Esther Dresser and Oliver Dresser, who scored high, while Mrs. William Light was consoled. In the group were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Caruthers, Mr. and Mrs. Arch Shipman, Pasadena; Mrs. William Benson and Messrs. Peter Stangier, Henry Taylor, Clarence Caleb, William Light and W. D. Smith, Los Angeles; Mrs. Esther Dresser and Oliver Dresser, Santa Bernardino; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hupp, Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Patterson, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ogden, Pomona; Mr. and Mrs. David West, Montebello.

Ferdinand, the Bull Dominates Party Setting

"Ferdinand the Bull" in all his glory inspired the decorative motif for a bridge club party at which Dr. and Mrs. Hubert Nall were hosts Saturday night in their home, 2139 North Flower street.

Dinner was served at tables centered with miniature cork trees, and appointed with placecards adorned with small Ferdinand figures designed by the artistic hostess. On a large table was an arena of yellow flowers, with Ferdinand and a graceful cork tree completing the scene.

Miss Frances Nall assisted her parents in entertaining. Bridge play brought prizes to Mrs. Paul Ragan and Joseph Daniger. They competed with other members including Mr. Ragan, Mrs. Daniger, the Nalls, and Mr. and Mrs. E. T. McFadden. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Daniger, who are visiting here from the east and Mr. and Mrs. Mize. Mrs. Ray Daniger and Mrs. Mize each received a gift of perfume which the hosts' son, Hubert Nall Jr. brought from Panama.

Sister Hostesses Plan Party For Bride-Elect

Prominent among the hope chest treasures of Miss Alfreida Forsberg, as she prepares for her February wedding to Joseph B. Bradshaw of Kansas City, Mo., are the lovely linens presented her at a recent bridal shower given in her honor by three sister hostesses, the Misses Lillie, Louise and Eunice McGowen of 1421 South Flower street.

In issuing invitations for the party, the hostesses used a train motif, because Miss Forsberg's fiancé is a railroad employee. They chose the recreation room of the Church of Christ building at Broadway and Walnut street, as scene of the gay affair, and again applied the train theme in decorations.

There were ferns and golden yellow jonquils in flower decorations, but the refreshment table was especially interesting. For a small train, labeled "Honey-moon Express," ran down the center of the table, its baggage cars loaded with gifts packages. To these were added many others at the time when Miss Forsberg was called to the center of her circle of friends, to open the numerous shower packages.

Mrs. James H. McGowen assisted her daughters in serving the refreshment course of molded fruit salad with wafers and coffee. Nuts and sweetmeats were placed in small traveling bags as favors.

Wedding Date

Miss Forsberg, who is the daughter of Mrs. Lillie Forsberg, 122 East Pomona street, will be the bride of Mr. Bradshaw on Valentine Day, February 14. Anderson, Mrs. Ruby Ricketts, Miss Ruth Ricketts, Orange; the Misses Eva Jean Mason and Wanda Wellman, Mesdames Frank Story, Webster Story, Fred Germany, George Duke, J. W. Sewell, Emma P. Larimore, Nelle Litchford, Clara Matthews, Maude Reeves, Alice Duke and James H. McGowen of this city, with the three hostesses, the Misses Lillie, Louise and Eunice McGowen.

Party Hostess Plans Gift Shower For Niece

It was a very charming courtesy which Mrs. Walter Vandermast, 416 South Main street, paid her niece, Mrs. James Van Patten, on Saturday afternoon. For the latter, arriving from her home in Los Angeles with several members of the family circle, found an intimate group of Santa Ana relatives assembled to greet her.

Mrs. Vandermast applied the pink and blue of infancy to all the pretty decorative details of the luncheon hour. The table, spread with lace, bore a white pottery jar of delphinium and sweet peas smiling at their reflection in a mirror plateau. From a dignified stork, pink and blue ribbons led to baby shoes filled with sweet peas and forget-me-nots.

Place cards continued the color harmony, and the hostess had developed it with market success even in details of the menu, including a blue tinted cottage cheese salad served in pink apples, and the cakes and ices of the dessert course.

During the afternoon of visiting, a tea wagon of ribbon-tied packages was wheeled into place before the young matron, who found the daintiest of layette gifts from all the guests. Mrs. Vandermast received with Mrs. Van Patten, latter's mother, Mrs. Larkin, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Seth Van Patten (sister of the hostess), Mrs. Edson Thomas, from Los Angeles; Mrs. G. A. Thompson of Eagle Rock; Mrs. May Thompson, Mrs. Newell Vandermast and Mrs. J. W. Flagg of this city.

The Buntens are traveling by automobile, and will visit San Francisco after the opening of the exposition, and also will stop in Portland en route to their Colorado home in the late spring. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas also are anticipating a short visit in mid-February, from their daughter, Mrs. Edward A. Poliak of Seattle, who will have a day or two in the Southland en route to Panama. She is sailing early in February from Seattle on a two months' voyage. Her husband, Dr. Poliak was unable to leave his practice so will not have the trip with her.

Miss Jessie Leach of Chicago, Ill. plans to leave tomorrow for her home after a ten days' visit with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Waldron, 2144 Greenleaf street.

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Frandson, 1722 Heliotrope Drive returned Saturday evening from a week's stay in the north. They spent the greater part of the time in Salinas with their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Bard Daughters, and were in Palo Alto for a visit with another daughter, Miss La Vonne Frandson, a student at Stanford University.

G. E. Van Hyning, 1048 West Fourth street, had as week end guests, Mr. and Mrs. Halsey H. Lamm of San Bernardino.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Mushrush and daughters, Mima Jean and Charlotte, 1452 Orange avenue spent the week end in Pasadena with his mother, Mrs. Charles Mushrush.

Mesdames Nannie Myers, Alice Tolhurst, Martha Vandewalker and Lydia Fipps were in Santa Monica Sunday attending the Owls picnic.

Former Santa Anan To Have S. F. Fair Booth

Santa Anans who plan trips north to San Francisco during the coming months to attend the big exposition are going to be happy at the opportunity to greet an old friend, Mrs. Roy Joslyn Wellman, the former Ellen Snelley. For she will be one of three attractive hostesses in charge of the Dow Chemical company's display in the Hall of Science.

Mr. and Mrs. Wellman have been in the north for the past year while the former pursued his studies in aeronautical engineering at Stanford University. He plans to do two years of graduate work after he gets his degree this year. Mrs. Wellman has been engaged in the history department at the university this past winter, but left a month before the formal opening of the exposition on February 18, in order to assist in the preparation of a booklet which the Dow Chemical company is issuing, and to familiarize herself with the products of the company.

Moose Auxiliary Gives Box Social, Program

Moose Auxiliary welcomed a large group of guests last night when a box social was given in Moose hall. Mrs. Ernest Dunn, chairman of organization, and Mrs. G. E. Bogart, entertainment chairman, were among those who received.

Moose lodge members and their friends shared the pleasant hospitality. Visel-Haughton studio provided a program including piano solos by Marilyn Kientz; reading, Eleanor Patrick; piano solo, Donna June Cocking. William Smith, Moose post laureate, read a humorous limerick.

Ernest Dunn gave a talk on the progress which the Moose auxiliary has made in this city. Mesdames W. C. Bond, Andrew Swenson and Helen L. Anderson were mentioned as recent additions to the charter list.

G. E. Crawford auctioned off the box supper. Paul Stewart's orchestra provided music for dancing which occupied the group for the remainder of the time. Decorations were in red and white. At 9 o'clock, members paused for special ceremonies during which prayer was offered for the children at Moosehart.

Lambda Club Luncheon

Lambda club members were in Anaheim late last week for a luncheon meeting in the home of Mrs. George Daws. Mrs. Armand Faccou had made the delicious cherry pies which formed the dessert course.

Vari-hued sweet peas centered the table at which luncheon was served. An afternoon of sewing was enjoyed by the group, which included the hostess and Mrs. Warren Lampman of Anaheim; Mrs. Edward Gaeb, Mrs. Carroll Ault, Mrs. Armand Faccou, Mrs. Carl Lykko and Mrs. Bus Abels, this city; Mrs. Kedrick Keely, Los Angeles.

Farewell Hospitality

Mrs. Anna Gall and the Misses Mary and Alice Gall, who are moving soon from 1428 West Third street to their new home on West Ninth street, were in the city for a farewell party recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hird and son, Jimmie, 1502 West Third street.

A neighborhood group took part in the informal affair, which included a session games. Refreshments were served.

O. E. S. Grand Officers Paid Guest Courtesies

With seven chapters of Order of Eastern Star joining to compliment the grand worthy matron and patron, Maude Fleutsch and John Vale, last night's reception in Santa Ana Masonic temple attracted more than 400 Star members from all sections of Orange county, as the grand officers made their official visit.

Decked in vivid red and white flowers, the chapter room lent itself well to the brilliancy of the scene, as junior past matrons of the seven host chapters received guests, and junior past patrons acted as ushers.

Patrons of the seven chapters aided in all friendly hospitality of the evening as their worthy matrons formed a group of marshals to pay escort honors to the distinguished visitors and those in their party. These patrons were Messrs. James Workman, Her-mosa chapter; Allan Knapp, Garden Grove; Leslie Barry, Huntington Beach; Joseph Rowley, Orange; Duane Kipp, Laguna Beach and Charles Haight, San Clemente.

Glenn Lyman of Santa Ana chapter, assisted his wife, Mrs. Pearl Lyman in presiding over the subsequent session. Worthy matron marshals were Mesdames Clara Seaver, Emma Henry, Martha Pickering, Eva Lee, Ynez Jensen and Nellie Cliff.

Mrs. Fleutsch wore a formal gown of black with the deep red roses presented her by the seven chapters. Later she sent these flowers to one of her deputies, Mrs. Olive Mason of Laguna Beach, prevented by illness from being present.

Escort honors were paid also to Mary Isabel Warner of Ontario, associate grand matron; Mildred Needham and Elsie Lynch, grand officers; Avazel Sample, Pansy Van Buren, Helen Lewis and Rose Mead, deputy grand worthy matrons; Flo Whitney, past grand treasurer, and various visiting worthy matrons and patrons. These included Pearl Hyde and Archibald Edwards, Fullerton; Marjorie Luthie, Anaheim; Alice Herman, La Habra; Alice Lewis, Norwalk; Georgiana Boyd, Artesia; Clara Vannetta, Ontario; Violet Gesler, Montana; Lois Morton and Ray Needham, Alhambra; Waller Lowe, Yorba Linda.

During the ceremonial, the chapters' joint gifts were presented to the two special guests, Mrs. Emma Henry making presentation to Mrs. Fleutsch, and Duane Kipp making that to John Vale. Special musical features included a solo group sung by Donald Kreuger with Miss Lois M. Allen at the piano.

When the party scene was transferred to the banquet room each host chapter had its special table, with lace cloth, green and white blossoms and candles, and a chapter member to preside at the silver coffee service. On the refreshment committee were Dolly and Harvey Dimmitt, Vera Jacoby, Helen Neal, Irma Folger and Lois Pearson.

Party Honoree Receives Layette Articles

Mrs. Van Pomeroy was showered with the daintiest of layette gifts last night when she was honored at a shower which Mrs. Dwight Ainsworth and Miss Gladys Marguerat joined in giving at Danigers.

The hostesses presented their guest of honor with a gardenia corsage bouquet. Pink and blue stocks and delphinium centered the table at which dessert was served preceding bridge play. Places were marked for Mrs. Pomeroy and for Mesdames Melvin Harbert, Kenneth Harbert, Victor Walker, Clyde Hill, Cecil Suddaby, Richard Ewert, Lawrence Cameron, H. A. Walker, Milo Ainsworth, Miss Roberta McKnight and the hostesses.

Winning prizes in contract were Mrs. Milo Ainsworth, Mrs. Victor Walker and Mrs. Pomeroy, who held the two high and low scores. Tallies were designed with stork figures.

Two-Table Event

Two tables of bridge were in play recently when club members were received in the home of Mrs. Clifford Erickson, 1001 Freeman street. Mrs. Robert Munro and Mrs. La Verne Guiley held the two highest scores in card play, which was followed by the serving of refreshments.

Family Group Assembles To Honor Bride-Elect

In anticipation of the marriage February 8 of Miss Elma May Smiley, daughter of the A. E. Smileys of Garden Grove, and Hil-ton Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Cannon of Orange, was a shower given Saturday afternoon in the home of the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. James A. Smiley, 2800 North Flower street.

Two of the honoree's aunts, Mrs. Deane Smiley and Mrs. Lyle J. Sherwin, joined Mrs. James Smiley in giving the affair, which was attended by a family group. The hostesses provided a handsome comfort which was tied during the afternoon. In addition, guests embroidered an assortment of towels which Mrs. Smiley had selected for her granddaughter.

The miscellaneous shower packages which the guests supplied were caught into a bundle formed by the completed comfort, and presented to Miss Smiley. Hot chocolate, sandwiches and cookies were served.

In the group with the three hostesses were Mesdames Arnold Lund, Loretta Cash, Glenn Patterson, Roy Beall, J. A. Felver, Carson Smith, R. R. Smith, E. M. Smiley, A. J. Smiley, Roderick Smiley, D. P. McBurney, W. R. McBurney, Minnie Irwin, Ray Cartwright and the Misses Vera Cash and Ruth McBurney, this city.

Mrs. A. H. Cannon, Mrs. Donald Smiley and Miss Jane Smiley, Orange; Mrs. Harold Smith, Santa Barbara; Mrs. Kenneth Smiley, South Pasadena; Mrs. J. E. Woodson, Mrs. Gilbert Sutton, Los Angeles; Mrs. Walter Carlson, Mrs. Frank Keller, Venice; Mrs. Roy Paine, Mrs. Elma McGarvin, Whittier; Miss Louise Smiley, Mrs. J. B. McKenna, Long Beach; Mrs. Jack Bonser, Mrs. Frank Dausser, Fullerton; Mrs. Howard Lutz, Anaheim; Miss Elizabeth Emerson, Carthage, Mo.; Mrs. Harold Baker, Needles; Mrs. Stewart Smith and Miss Barbara Jean Smith, Brea; Miss Janet Smiley and Mrs. A. D. Smiley, Garden Grove; with the honoree.

Three-Year Old Girl Has Birthday Party

Little Miss Sandra Spencer celebrated her third birthday Saturday afternoon by entertaining a group of playmates in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Spencer, 1123 South Garnsey street.

The little guests spent part of the time playing with toys. Their pictures were taken out of doors and later when they were in the dining room for refreshments. Table appointments were in pink and white, as were decorations on the candle-decked cake served with other dainties.

Pink nut cup-places cards marked places for the group. In the party were Mrs. John Cress and Stanley; Mrs. Kenneth Ulrich, Sheryl Ann and Carol Jean; Mrs. Howard Yuel and Robert; Mrs. Gene Ankrop, Janean and Jimmy; Mrs. Whitford Hall and Barbara Jean, Santa Ana; with Mrs. Stanley Wheeler and Claudia, Garden Grove.

After Sandra had unwrapped her prettily-wrapped packages, she presented each of her little guests with a photograph of herself.

Anaheim Couple Wed In Local Chapel

Broadway Wedding chapel was scene of a quiet wedding Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Amelia Hartman and Frank Stanway of Anaheim exchanged vows before the Rev. W. S. McDougal of the chapel. An intimate group of relatives and friends attended.

The bride wore a blue tulleur with a corsage bouquet of gardenias. She was attended by Mrs. Arthur Wolf of Los Angeles as matron of honor. Henry Stanway of Anaheim was best man.

The newly-married couple will reside in Anaheim. The bridegroom is a watchmaker.

Assistance League Resumes Its Sessions

It was with special zest that Assistance League members approached their meeting yesterday with Mrs. Clarence Gustlin and Mrs. Fred C. Rowland in the Gustlin home, 816 North Main street. For because of the press of holiday affairs, semi-monthly League sessions had been lapsed since early December.

Interest has never lapsed however, so members were quite ready yesterday to discuss plans for community activities after they had glanced back over the year just closed, and realized their accomplishments in that year. Some of these came to the surface in reports of the latest meeting and the executive board meeting, read by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edgar Elstrom, in the absence of the recording secretary, Mrs. Wilbur Barr. Others were given by Mrs. John Ball, whose talk pertained to hospital cases cared for in the League's room or beds at local institutions.

Twenty-eight maternity cases have had the privilege of the room maintained by the organization at Santa Ana Valley hospital, while an even score of children have been cared for at St. Joseph hospital. There is quite a waiting list for the maternity room.

Immediately after the luncheon menu served so temptingly by the hostesses, Edward M. Hall arrived to discuss with the group matters pertaining to the annual Orange County Horse show, for which he will serve as business manager and which is given under auspices of the League. The date is a tentative one in June.

Mrs. Lloyd Chenoweth, in addition to presiding, talked informally on the day she and Mrs. Mortimer Plum had spent at Los Angeles Assistance League headquarters, and the inspiration received from "Opportunity House," maintained for young girls whose mothers are working women, and who are instructed in all phases of home-making. The Santa Ana League is not yet ready for so ambitious an undertaking, but is planning a project whereby its headquarters in the Ramona building may come into community service. For a Thrift Shop is to be instituted there, and Mrs. Herbert Miller was named as chairman to select her committee for launching the project.

Only desirable and useful articles of clothing or home equipment will be on sale at nominal prices. Members will start the assortment with donations which they are to bring to next Monday's meeting with Mrs. Edgar Elstrom and Mrs. Dexter Ball in the Elstrom home, 1912 Heliotrope Drive. The project will demand a certain number of days, each week for the present, the opening to be announced later.

In the meantime the local group will prepare a history from days of its founding to the present, with full account of all activities, achievements and membership, for the parent organization, Los Angeles Assistance League.

HOLLYWOOD, January 31.—Nelson Eddy's marriage is going to be the final test of Hollywood's time-honored belief that off-screen matrimony and on-screen romance can't be mixed without loss of popularity to the player. I doubt if any other star, since the hey-day of Rudolph Valentino, has prospered so much by the somewhat psychopathic adoration of love-sick ladies in his audiences. Women have groveled at Eddy's feet when he went on concert tours and supplied newspapers with headlines by following him from town to town. Women have formed the solid phalanx around which his army of fans have always rallied. In my opinion, no other star has ever risked more by marriage.

And the circumstances of Nelson's marriage don't tend to soothe the disillusionment of the ladies who have pictured him as their dream ideal. There was no whirlwind courtship, no fairy-tale plot, no appeal to the imaginations of Nelson, who's as steady, sensible and un-Lochinvarish in real life as the president of your local bank, chose to marry a very charming, forty-year-old divorcee. They had been excellent friends for several years. All in all, it presented the unexciting features of any middle-aged, upper class wedding.

I'm wondering how many girls, who have had Nelson's photograph enshrined on their dresser tops, have already replaced him with—say—Tyrone Power. If their number isn't legion, then the wisecracks of Hollywood who wrote that ban against screen heroes trekking to the altar, were completely daffy. And wisecracks seldom are that wrong.

IDOL CHATTER: You'll have to admit that Dorothy Lamour shows plenty of backbone in her choice of evening gowns. Ode to chivalry: Don Ameche's thoughtful habit of chewing a fresh stick of gum before each kissing scene.

The Mixing Bowl

Apple Skillet Cake is one of those gooey up-side-down cakes, so good for dessert on winter nights.

In a heavy iron skillet melt 3 tablespoons of butter. Over the butter sprinkle 1 cup brown sugar, over the sugar slice 6 peeled apples. Dust with cinnamon and add the juice of a lemon mixed with ¼ cup hot water. Over mixture, spread this batter:

Beat 1 egg with ½ cup sugar

Seems to me that something slipped when movie fans in fifty towns were given a chance the other day to elect a "King" and a "Queen" of the movies. They promptly decorated Tyrone Power with a crown by a landslide vote—and 59,608 fans overlooked the other ladies of Cinema City while naming Jeannette MacDonald queen. The whole thing makes me very suspicious of that list of 1939's "Ten Greatest Box-Office Stars," recently compiled by the exhibitors. On that list the new "King" was tenth—and the "Queen" didn't rate at all.

It was a scene for "I Take This Woman," Hedy Lamarr was to leap to her death and a half-dozen awe-struck publicity men assured me that she had refused a double—she was going to do the stunt herself. I went on the set to share the thrill. Three cameras—an army of anxious, tense spectators—and, poised above the crowd, Hedy Lamarr—completely scornful of the danger. After an hour of preparation, commendation and consultation, the great moment arrived. Hedy jumped . . . fell . . . and everyone rushed to see that she was safe. She was. It was just eight feet from the take-off to the landing place—a yard-thick feather bed.

Speaking of Hedy Lamarr reminds me that she's one of a four-some which is being seen in all the nite-spots these days. She goes with Bruce Cabot; Adrienne Ames clings to the arm of Reginald Gardiner. And here's the Hollywood touch. Gardiner used to be engaged to Hedy; Bruce was once the husband of Adrienne Ames. Copyright, 1939, McNaught Syn., Inc.

Sift 1 cup flour with 2 scant teaspoons baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt. Stir into egg-sugar mix, ½ cup boiling milk and quickly mix to a batter with flour.

Bake 30 minutes in a medium hot oven and serve with hard sauce or plain cream and sugar.

Using the skillet batter recipe, spread it in a 2-inch deep pan, generously buttered, and over top sprinkle this crumb mixture: 4 tablespoons butter, creamed with 1 tablespoon flour, then with 1 cup brown sugar. Over this sugar crumb spread 2 cups of grated pineapple. Bake 30 minutes, invert pan on serving plate for table service. Plain cream is always good with these desserts.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Macaroni-Cheese Loaf

1½ cups cut macaroni, cooked in salted water, drained and well rinsed with hot water.
1 cup extra thick and rich cream sauce
2 cups grated yellow cheese
1 beaten egg
Salt and pepper to taste
½ cup buttered crumbs

A tested recipe.

First a word about the cream sauce: it should be thick enough to cut and it should be cooked 20 minutes. I suggest making it with thin cream.

Combine egg with cream sauce, add cheese and season to taste. Mix quickly with macaroni and spoon into a bread tin, buttered and well sprinkled with part of the crumbs . . . this allows the loaf to turn out reasonably intact. Use balance of crumbs for top of loaf. Bake in a moderate oven until the loaf is firm to the touch. Serve with this sauce:

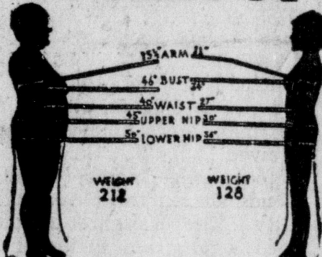

Combine 1 can each, tomato and cream of mushroom soup in a double boiler. Heat slowly, thin with a few spoonfuls of milk and add seasoning.

This macaroni loaf is an ideal budget saver. Complete the meal with a cooked vegetable, a plain lettuce salad, dressed with sharp French dressing, and a non-fattening dessert; baked apples, maybe.

French Carrots

Slice enough peeled carrots to make a quart. In a heavy covered saucepan put a spoonful of olive oil, a teaspoon of sugar, a little salt and pepper and 2 cloves of garlic, crushed. Put carrots over this mixture, cover and steam over a pinpoint of flame about 45 minutes. Stir occasionally, so that the carrots will be evenly flavored. Fish out and discard garlic before serving the carrots.

EDITORIAL BY DEATH

In the last moments of his life, Capt. E. C. Crossman, veteran Los Angeles police officer, penned a poignant and telling warning against the tragedies that result from highway carelessness. Beside the dying man, in his monoxide-filled car, was found a note to the coroner: "Reason for suicide: The death of my beloved wife, October 21, from the motor car accident which was my own fault."

Because of a single accident—a home broken by death, and a bereaved man driven by months of remorseful brooding to take his own life. And that traffic accident was but one of the many that killed 2768 men, women and children on California highways in 1938. Safety progress is being made—slowly; for those figures are the lowest of any year since 1934. Yet, since virtually all highway accidents are preventable through constant exercise of caution and strict observance of safety rules, the toll is still far too high.

Captain Crossman's suicide is regrettable. The act but added to the tragic consequences of his costly mistake. It may be, however, that the story of the unfortunate man's mental torment and death may have more effect in awakening motorists to the fearful penalties of highway thoughtlessness than the most powerful editorial that could be written in the world.

THE "FORGOTTEN PEOPLE"

"The government's policy of steadily lowering interest rates," said Orval W. Adams, former president of the American Bankers Association a short time ago, "is out of all reason." It has made the owners of savings deposits and insurance policies the "forgotten people," on whom up to $800,000,000 of "invisible taxes" are levied each year. He stated that 44,000,000 depositors alone have been forced to accept a reduction around 50 per cent in the income received from their savings, in order that the government can finance its gigantic spending program with securities bearing an excessively low rate of interest.

Commenting on this, the New York Herald Tribune observes that "only a few years ago the man who wanted to put something aside against the time when he would not be able to earn a living any longer could expect from 4 to 5 per cent on his savings with complete safety. Today the best he can expect is half that return. This means that the man who could assure himself at least a living income in his old age by saving, say $25,000, now has to save just twice that amount to produce the same annuity."

"Cheap money" is as disastrous as abnormally low prices for farm crops. The government's present policy works to eliminate returns from savings on the one hand and boost the cost of living on the other.

Government policy is responsible for cheapening money to such an extent that few can look forward to an old age in which they can be comfortably supported by income from invested savings.

SOCIALISM IN NEBRASKA

Private utility ownership in Nebraska is steadily receding before the rising tide of public ownership. Apparently it will be only a question of time before Nebraska's electric industry, heretofore owned and operated as a private enterprise and developed by industrial savings and ingenuity, is turned over lock, stock and barrel to public agencies operated by politicians who haven't a thin dime of their own money invested in the undertakings. Regardless of rosy pictures painted by professional politicians, the electric industry of Nebraska would then be a menace not only to that state but to the entire nation because it represents something that, in principle, is diametrically opposed to the traditional American system of encouraging individual enterprise.

When the state takes over an industry, socialism becomes a fact. Socialism and capitalism cannot live permanently side by side. One eventually will displace the other. In the meantime, there is constant strife. The politicians seek to extend the grip of government on industry, and industry (private enterprise) fights back.

The man in the street may think it makes no difference to him who operates industry. If he can get "cheap" electricity by voting for government ownership, why not do it? He forgets the tragic fact that the thing that kills private industry will some day deprive him of his liberty. As private enterprise is crushed, so democratic government is crushed.

ROOSEVELT'S SUBVERSION OF GOVERNMENT
(Chicago Tribune)

Mr. Roosevelt leaves little room for doubt that he is determined to put the American government in the hands of the most radical and revolutionary men he can find in the next year. It is his transparent desire and will that the places of greatest authority and responsibility shall be filled by persons committed to sweeping if not violent changes in American practices of government.

To succeed a Taft appointee on the interstate commerce commission he has nominated Thomas R. Amle, the Wisconsin congressman who has been so far out on the left of the La Follette Progressive party that even the La Follettes themselves could not find him. Two years ago Amle introduced what he called a human rights amendment to the constitution, providing for the socialization of business and industry, and he has followed that up with a bill for an industrial administration "with dictatorial powers over all forms of production." In these proposals the railroads and the country at large may read a prospectus of Mr. Amle's purposes and find the pattern of Mr. Roosevelt's program.

Mr. Roosevelt is rallying from his setback in the primaries and the election with the determination to push his revolution ahead on every line of attack as rapidly as possible. That is made plain in his nomination of Felix Frankfurter to the Supreme Court. Frankfurter trained and indoctrinated a majority of the young Harvard radicals who were recruited by the New Deal to write the revolution into law and to constitute the administration pressure group on Capitol Hill. Prof. Frankfurter was the most learned radical Mr. Roosevelt could find

MUST COME BEFORE RECOVERY

"Permanent recovery will begin only when the deficit trend is reversed through a reduction in government expenses and a broadening of the tax base. Only a broadening of the tax base can create that tax-conscious citizenry without which no democracy can long endure," is what Orval W. Adams said in his address at the Bankers Convention in November.

Here is a man who understands the fundamental cause of our trouble. When the great majority of people believe that taxes can be paid by other than themselves they are not interested in economy. In fact, instead of being interested in government economy, they are determined that the government shall try to do more and more things for people. They have been taught by the schools, by the preachers, by the Republican and Democratic parties that taxes can be and should be paid by those with ability to pay. They have been taught that this did not lower the standard of living of the ordinary worker. They have been taught to believe that this would raise their standard of living. When, in reality, it is the very thing that is bound to lower their standard of living. There has never yet been demonstrated any method whereby taxes can be paid by any group that is not reflected back into lower wages and unemployment of the great mass of producers.

In this great speech made by Adams, he says, "With public spending out of control, upon us as bankers rests primarily the duty of protecting the savings of the American people. It is an economic truth that as the government debt and the government deficit increase, the purchasing power and value of savings decrease. I feel more confident than ever that it lies in our power to render real service in protecting such savings."

He says, "They (the bankers) know that as the flood of government securities rises, the outlets for investment in normal wealth-producing, labor-employing enterprises, are closed. They see that the service charge on the mounting public debt increases more rapidly than does the total annual income of the people. They see the country moving in a vicious circle. Increased taxes are already so great a charge on industry as to slow down production."

"If the present disastrous course is to be stopped before it is too late, the millions of holders of insurance policies and bank depositors must be acquainted with the facts. I know that we can do much to bring this about."

Widening of the tax basis and putting it on the direct tax basis, will do as much as anything in the world to bring about a government that is really democratic and does not interfere with the inalienable rights of every man to the fruits of his own labor.

Orval Adams certainly has put his finger on a very vital point as a beginning point before we can start recovery.

RESULT OF COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

As an example of the natural fruits of the belief that wages can be raised by collective bargaining, the recent decision by Dr. Towne Nylander, regional director of the so-called Fair Labor Standards Act, is certainly a good example. He ruled that the right for rush-season work can only be obtained with the consent of a union duly certified by the Labor Board.

If this would not be taking away the rights of anybody who believed in the competitive system and force complete unionization by law, I have no conception at all of what liberty means.

Another of the fruits of the belief in collective bargaining is the growth and sponsoring of the Workers Alliance. The Worker's Alliance is supposed by those people who are on the government work relief, or dole, the sole purpose of it is to bring pressure to bear on the Congress for greater doles and softer jobs.

The idea that people who have to be assisted by the government have to be paid enough money so that these workers can contribute to a union to intimidate Congress is certainly asking the people who are furnishing the substance to also furnish the wherewithal to extort more and more from themselves.

But when people come to believe that wages of all the people can be established by collective bargaining, or by law, it is only natural that we reap results like the above two examples mentioned.

in the country to give the Supreme Court another list to the left.

When it seemed politically advisable to take the heat off the WPA because of the proved scandals of political manipulation of destitution and relief funds, Mr. Hopkins, the administrator, was sent to the department of commerce. Even if Mr. Hopkins cannot remember whether he was once a registered socialist, he is qualified for his new job only by carrying out White House orders, even when, as he has confessed, he had to do things he admits were highly reprehensible. They were scandalous without being very successful, but they organized unemployment as the political tool of dictatorship.

Mr. Hopkins' assistant, Aubrey Williams, another radical who violated canons of common decency in the spending of public money, has been transferred to the National Youth administration, which the revolutionaries consider one of the great training fields for future subversiveness. In that field, for that purpose, Mr. Williams has demonstrated his complete qualification as a mentor to revolutionary youth.

The Michigan governor, Frank Murphy, who nourished the sitdown strike and coddled the communist seizure of industries, has been rewarded, marvelous to say, by being made head of the department of justice and chief federal law enforcer—of all things a law enforcer. Mr. Murphy was the most active supporter of the communists who now have gained control of the auto union management. And here it may be noted that when administrations were set up for the national labor act and the wages and hour act the communists sneaked a man into each.

The nomination of Mr. Amle follows the line of political procedure indicated in the appointments which preceded it. Mr. Roosevelt is searching the country for the most radical men he can find and intends to place the business of government in their hands. Congress, although putting up some stiff opposition to the developing program for the seventh and eighth years of the revolution, has thus far held to the position that the President is entitled to surround himself with advisers and administrators of his own choice.

The nomination of Amle may cause many senators to restudy that idea as it becomes apparent that Mr. Roosevelt is setting up a government of commissars with the undoubted purpose of fastening the revolution on the country as its heritage from him, with or without the third term.

Fair Enough

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—The income tax amendment is short and wide. It just says that congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several states and without regard to any census or enumeration.

It says nothing about rates of tax or exemptions, nothing about deductions or expenses incurred in the acquisition of the income, nothing about gross or net or any fine distinction between capital and income or the subtraction from the gross of amounts paid as taxes in other ways. It says nothing about immunity for public employees of the states and their subdivisions or for labor unions or religious or charitable organizations. The amendment left all such matters to the conscience and mood of Congress in the future, and it must be admitted that, in some ways, Congress has done quite the handsome thing up to now. The courts also have done their bit.

A city man gets an exemption for himself and wife, if any, children, of any, and other dependent relatives, if any, and a farmer may also charge off the cost of supporting his cow provided she is a professional cow, producing milk, butter and, occasionally, veal, which, being sold, produces incomes. He may even deduct the cost of a veterinary to attend his cow in her hour, although the cost of medical care for his wife, in hers, is not deductible. If the horse that pulls his plow comes down of a misery he may charge off medical advice and care and liniment, although if he himself comes down on a creek from pushing the plow and needs a doctor and a bottle of No. 97 or No. 38 that expense is not deductible. He may charge off wear and tear on the cow and horse but not wear and tear on himself.

If a man is a professional ball player—a Babe Ruth or a Dizzy Dean, for example—he is entitled to the conventional exemptions and deductions pertaining to his line of work but is not allowed to charge depreciation of his equipment, plant or whatever you would call his physique. But the corporation which owns him, as property, may list him—or, rather his contract—in the same general category as the farmer's professional or income-producing cow and show gradual depreciation and schedule as business expense the cost of pulling his teeth or tonsils, feeding him T-bones and hashed brown potatoes and shipping and stabling him on the road.

The exceptions, exemptions and immunities provided by Congress in an effort to be nice although armed with a devastating authority to tax, are, on the whole, a beautiful exhibition of restraint, adorned by many amusing and cheering oddities.

All that the constitution says about freedom of religion is this: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." It doesn't say that religious organizations must be immune from the theory behind chain store taxation applying to concerns operating interstate. And the income tax amendment doesn't say that Congress must permit those who contribute to religious organizations to deduct such gifts or any proportion of them from their income. The religious freedom article doesn't even mention, and of course labor unions or pools of wealth were unheard of at that time.

However, under the income tax amendment Congress still has the power to lay the tax against religious and labor organizations, and for all that any other constitutional provision says to the contrary Congress may. In fact, in the paragraph of the revenue act providing exemption for religious organizations, Congress bared a fang in 1936 and a phrase was inserted to provide that such organizations could not enjoy the exemption if a "substantial part" of their activities consisted of carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation.

Labor unions, however, are not placed under any such limitation, and a union under Communist domination may attempt to influence legislation without risk, whereas, nominally, at least, a church invites the wrath of the internal revenue for attempting to exert a counter-influence.

There is almost no limit to the tricks that a playful Congress could do with the income tax authority, and if the subjects were really smart they wouldn't say a word for fear of riling the statesmen and reminding them of their strength. Under their power they can just say to hell with cute distinctions and exemptions, and hereafter everybody, including churches, unions and all, must shower down 20 per cent or 50 per cent of all dough or profit acquired in the year, and don't forget what happened to Al Capone.

Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Some people develop a condition in which they are attacked by an irresistible desire to sleep or to pass into a state of unconsciousness which closely resembles sleep. This is called narcolepsy in contrast to prolonged stages of immobility which are called catalepsy and the convulsive stages which are called epilepsy.

Narcolepsy may become so severe that these patients under influence of emotions become unable to move and instead sink to the ground. Occasionally narcolepsy may be traced to some severe inflammation of the nervous system, or brain, or to head injury. In many instances there have been cases of nervous disorders in the family but the exact cause has not been determined with certainty. Usually these cases occur during youth or early adult life. Men are affected twice as often as are women.

In a typical case the attack of sleep occurs without any cause and may come just after the patient is awakened after a sound sleep or while he is at work. In most instances, however, the attacks come under circumstances which are likely to produce sleep—for example, after the patient has had a heavy lunch on a farm day, after he has been riding in a motor car or bus, or listening to a dull lecture.

The attack will be preceded by a sudden feeling of fatigue and if the patient tries hard, he may resist the attack but eventually the sleepiness may prove uncontrollable. The sleep may last only a few seconds or a few minutes but in some cases, if undisturbed these patients will sleep for hours.

Fortunately very few people who suffer these attacks die of them unless as a result of an accident. In 1930 an investigator found

Fellow Citizens: I see congress is squabbling over a trifle of one hundred and fifty million dollars for relief. I don't see any good reason for this after all we have spent in the past. Anyway these are just old horse and buggy dollars too slow to ever get any place, and too far away from home to even get back. What we need is a streamlined dollar, one that will travel as fast as an automobile or airplane or a streamlined train. Everything is streamlined but our medium of exchange. After spending several hundred million dollars we wonder how much closer we have brought prosperity to our door. Then when we have to do it all over we wonder again. Which reminds me of an old razorback hog down in Arkansas. One of the natives built a rail fence around his corn field to keep out the razorback hogs that run wild in the woods, unthoughtfully he built the fence over a hollow log then one bright morning an old razorback came down along the fence picking up acorns and anything to help make a meal on and spied the hole in the log, so he got down on his haunches, crawled through the hole in the log and filled himself up on corn. Every day he would do this until the native found out what was going on and moved the fence back past the end of the log then for days and days he would come back, crawl through the log and stand there at the far end in a kind of a daze as though wondering what had become of the corn.

I am wondering just what would happen should congress continue to keep moving the fence back and finally close the door to relief entirely.

CHARLES E. MORRIS.

Fellow Citizens: The statement of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce that the appointment of a county counsel by the supervisors is a "needless expense and abuse of public policy" may be true. I am not prepared to contradict it. Before voting "Yes" or "No" on questions reported sent out, however, the public is entitled to more facts than they have been given.

The supervisors are the governing body of Orange county. They have official duties and responsibilities which the members of a chamber of commerce do not have. Also the supervisors know what legal services they have had in the past, or have not had, and they seem to have definite ideas as to the amount and kind of legal services they want in the future. No one qualified to dispute them has spoken.

It is true that three former that the product called ephedrine sulfate was useful in the treatment of this condition and benefit seems to be obtained in many cases by the use of this remedy.

A more modern remedy is benzedrine sulfate, which also seems to produce relief. Inasmuch, however, as these remedies are highly powerful drugs, they should never be used except under the advice of a physician who will pre-prescribe the dosage, the number of times that the remedy is to be taken daily or nightly and other factors which are necessary to prevent harm from the use of such powerful remedies.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—They are not advertising it publicly, but today State Department diplomats are about 100 per cent in favor of lifting the Spanish embargo.

Tragedy is that they are just nine months too late. Last April and May when Senate opinion favored lifting the embargo, State Department officials generally were opposed. They were irked and disgruntled over the delegations which visited them from all parts of the country, at the mail which deluged them by the truckload.

At that time, they said the Spanish war would be over in six weeks. That was nine months ago.

Today the State Department, realizing its tragic mistake, would like to have the embargo lifted, but it wants Congress to do the lifting. Today also it happens that the President is much less enthusiastic on the subject than his State Department.

Strangely enough his Cabinet, for the most part, disagrees with him. Private polls of the Cabinet show seven emphatically in favor of lifting the embargo. They are Ickes, Hopkins, Murphy, Wallace, Perkins, Morgenthau and Hull, the latter being favorable, though rather timidly so.

This poll was not taken at a Cabinet session, but by some members of the above group who checked up on sentiment among themselves. The main cabinet member, however, F. D. Roosevelt, thinks it is too late to do anything about the embargo, also appears swayed by Catholic opinion.

One of Roosevelt's most intimate advisers recently counseled a friend who was urging action on Spain, "Why don't you go down to Florida and fix in with the Cardinal?"

He was referring to Cardinal Mundelein, close friend of Roosevelt, who has been recuperating from an illness in Florida.

FDR Vacation

The President leaves Washington February 18 to observe the navy maneuvers now in progress in the Caribbean, remaining away until March 3. He will make his sea trip on the 10,000-ton cruiser Houston, which he used for his vacation junket last year. Present plans take him to Miami by rail, where he will board the Houston.

Garner vs. Frankfurter

Private boast of Justice Felix Frankfurter is that he once drank gusty Vice President Jack Garner "under the table."

Not many know it, but the two men are great friends. They were introduced in the early days of the New Deal by ex-brain-truster Ray Moley and took an immediate fancy to each other. Garner calls Frankfurter "Cardinal" and Frankfurter calls Garner "Excellency."

Once, while in Washington to attend a White House dinner, Frankfurter remarked to the President that he was making an afternoon call on Garner. The President jokingly warned him to be careful of the vice president's hospitality or he wouldn't be able to attend the dinner.

No slouch when it comes to holding his liquor, Frankfurter retorted, "I'll drink the vice president pint for pint and I'll bet he will be the first to cry quits."

That is exactly what happened. Some hours later, Frankfurter returned to the White House a bit the worse for wear—but triumphant. He had out-drunk Garner, much to the latter's mingled disgust and admiration.

Another White House guest remarked that he seemed to have had pretty rough going.

"Yes," grinned Frankfurter, district attorneys have been heard from. They are Z. B. West, Sam Collins and S. B. Kaufman. They disagree among themselves, and the supervisors or any one else could not agree with them. One says that a public defender should have been appointed. Another says it is unnecessary, but does not say it is illegal. The third says it is illegal, but does not say it is unnecessary.

Some of the supervisors have first hand information as to the kind and amount of legal services these attorneys gave the board. The board may have decided that in the future it desires "bigger and better" legal services, to use commercial club language. Also the board may want to know that when they call for legal services from their counsel he will be on hand, and not in Los Angeles, Palm Springs, or Santa Anita.

If the present district attorney, Mr. Holden, will state that after a month's experience in the office he finds that with his present staff he is not only able to, properly perform the public legal duties he has attended to, but could also have properly and efficiently done the legal work required by the supervisors, his statement, if supported by facts stated, should carry weight.

There then would be a disputed matter. Against the view of the supervisors that special legal counsel is necessary on account of their requirements for legal services, would be off-set by the opinion of the district attorney that he and his staff are able to carry on without any extra help.

Oil And Water

Some of the congressional master minds have hit on a new scheme to solve the Dies committee problem.

Their plan is to combine it with the LaFollette committee as a new joint committee of House and Senate with specific instructions to ferret out Communism-Nazi operations, plus violation of civil liberties. Senator LaFollette and Representative Dies would each retain the chairmanship of his respective committee, with LaFollette heading the joint committee through seniority.

The argument for this scheme is that basically both committees have been investigating the same thing—un-American activities. By combining their efforts would be pooled and at the same time a check-rein put on Dies to keep him from using the probe to aggrandize himself politically.

Note—LaFollette is cold to the idea, indicates he wouldn't touch it "with a ten-foot pole."

Senatorial Stenographers

When Senators' secretaries (feminine) get together for a talk-fest, they sound just like secretaries anywhere. Three of them sat down to lunch in the Senate restaurant the other day, from the staffs of Senators Radcliffe of Maryland, Guffey of Pennsylvania and Adams of Colorado, and they said:

"I can't see why we girls can't go on to the floor of the Senate. If a secretary is a man, he walks right through the door."

"I agree with you. It's an outrage. It's discrimination . . . What are they talking about upstairs?"

"Hopkins' confirmation."

"Has Senator George spoken yet? I want to hear him."

"Oh, so do I. I'm so fond of him. I don't know him, but as I see him going around, he seems so fine and gentle."

"I wish Senator Smathers (New Jersey) would make up his mind what color he wants his hair to be. It used to be snow white; now it's brown, but the white is coming in again."

"Does he really die? That's excusable in a woman, but not in a man."

"Do you use the beauty parlor in the Senate Office Building?"

"I tried it once, but it's such a dump—down in the cellar, you know."

"They're trying to get an appropriation to move it upstairs. 'I must go . . . Oh wait a minute, waiter, I don't want to spend that. That silver dollar is my lucky piece. . . . Goodbye, girls.'"

Air Training

The announcement of plans to train 20,000 college students in aeronautics annually was a sharp rebuff to Dr. John W. Studebaker, ambitious U. S. commissioner of education.

He made strenuous efforts to get this program under his wing, but on the advice of military experts the President placed it under the Civil Aeronautics Authority and the National Youth Administration.

This is not the first time Studebaker has stubbed his toe while climbing the path of ambition. When first appointed he tried to horn into the CCC picture but failed. Then when the National Youth Administration was organized, he wanted it turned over to him.

When Roosevelt declined, the irked Studebaker aired his resentment at a meeting of educators in Cleveland. This, which promptly leaked back to the White House, didn't help him a bit when he tried to get his hands on the aviation training program.

OLIVE HILLSIDE GROVES SHIP 68 MORE CARS THAN IN 1937

OLIVE, Jan. 31.—Approximately 68 more cars were handled by Olive Hillside Groves in 1938 than were handled in 1937, according to the report of F. B. Maxwell, secretary-manager, at the annual meeting of the association today. This is an increase of approximately 31 per cent. Manager Maxwell's report was presented at the business session which followed a noon luncheon served at the St. Paul's Lutheran Hall by Mrs. Hazel Gollin and her assistants. Packing costs per field box were less in 1938 than they were in 1937, Maxwell reported. Taxes showed a great increase owing to the operation of social security and unemployment insurance measures, for the most part. The increase over 1937 was 53.4 per cent. President W. A. Greenleaf presided at the business sessions and introduced the speakers, many of whom were from the Mutual Orange Distributors, the cooperative marketing organization with which the Olive Association is affiliated. Among the MOD representatives were Bruce McDaniel, general manager, who explained the possibilities of improving the distribution system so that there would be less handling of fruit between the grower and the ultimate consumer with the result that numerous unnecessary costs could be eliminated, thereby increasing the returns to the growers as well as enabling people in the lower income brackets to buy more oranges. A. E. Isham, manager of the field department of the MOD, spoke at length on the growth of the cooperative movement in the United States and declared that this was the age of co-operatives in agricultural pursuits of all kinds. He showed how democracies, themselves, are co-operatives. J. A. Steward, MOD sales manager, analyzed the market situation and related the effect of the pro-rate agreement on the movement of fruit. H. L. Thomason, of the grower's service department, gave the assembled growers some helpful ideas on cultural practices and asked the growers to consider the possibilities of deep cultivation being injurious to citrus trees by cutting off feeder roots near the surface. Representatives of Cal-Juices, Inc., Anaheim, the by-products plant in which the Olive association is a stockholder, explained operations there. John W. Crill, president, explained production methods and the future of canned orange juice and concentrate, while John Annala, assistant sales manager of the canned goods department of the MOD, outlined the distribution problems and sales methods. Other speakers were George Graham, representing the Associated Farmers, and A. L. Chandler, manager of the fertilizer department of the Mutual Orange Distributors.

The PAYOFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON
(EA Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—Fight fans appear to be getting little in return for their investments at heavyweight affairs these days, yet no one seems to mind.

There were many who shelled out $30 for ringside news to Joe Louis belt out Max Schmeling in one round last summer. They paid $16 to see Joe blast John Henry Lewis in the same length of time. And over in Newark a few nights past they forked out good money to witness Tony Galento's one-round

Jorge Brescia.

Yet they come away satisfied. What the mitt game needs is something that will produce a challenger of suitable proportions for feature value.

$34.50

NOW BUYS THE WORLD'S BIGGEST WASHER VALUE!

There's no doubt about it—HERE is absolutely your biggest buy in a washer. You have only COMPARE to satisfy yourself of the truth of our statement. Come in today and see with your own eyes the amazing quality and efficiency of our famous "FAULTLESS" nation-wide popular

These outstanding features you'd expect only in washers costing dollars more. There recently have been them all in the "FAULTLESS" at

Nov. of them is good. It's a fact, Louis, but at least you could eliminate all but one.

Waxman relates how he once sold Galento for $750 to a Newark saloonkeeper named Dowd.

"He paid me in dimes, quarters, and post-dated checks," asserts Waxman. "I figured I got a bargain."

"Galento is getting a great deal of publicity. I guess nobody can help that. When he was going to sign with me he wanted to wait until he was 21 so it would be legal. Well, the night before his birthday he comes down to my hotel and says how he wants to stay there until his birthday so he'll be sure nobody fills him full of beer and gets him to sign a contract before he can get around to signing with me."

"I tell him sure. I'll get you a room. But he says, 'Now, don't bother. I'll sleep on the floor.' So he sleeps on the floor."

"He's always doing screwy things and you can't help but write him up. Why, just the other day I see in a New York column that Galento is the Falstaff of the ring. I figured they were getting around to giving him a plug, which would be going a little strong, but somebody tells me that that Falstaff guy is out of a book by Shakespeare."

"Well, Shakespeare or not, that Galento isn't as good a fighter as his newspaper space makes folks suspect."

Dempsey's idea of an elimination tournament would be a swell idea, since Louis undoubtedly would then eliminate the remaining heavyweights.

But nobody, not even Dempsey, can figure out how to get two boxing commissioners together on the right time. . . . let alone two entire commissions and a national association.

PITTSBURGH TO ASK CHICAGO'S BIG TEN SPOT

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The University placed its Big Ten vision in the Big 10, of its athletic intercollegiate word on eligibility, Griffith thought of the Pittsburgh entering a co-operative with the Big 10 have, as many charges of substitution may give up its place in the conference soon. Should Chicago drop out, or any other member, Pitt would be in the best position to step in. For that matter, the Western conference does not provide for a 10-member limit.

Gehring Tops Gordon, Says Moriarty

DETROIT (UP)—Joe (Flash) Gordon of the New York Yankees is a good second baseman but Charley Gehring, the Tigers' star, is the greatest of them all.

George Moriarty, American league umpire told the fifth annual sports dinner at the Yacht club last night.

"I have been watching Charley Gehring play second base for many years," Moriarty said, "and I can truthfully say that I have never seen his equal. To me he is the greatest of the second sackers."

Wallace Wade, Duke university football coach who piloted the Blue Devils through an undefeated season and then lost the Rose Bowl encounter, was presented a plaque and named the outstanding coach of the 1938 season.

PAUL DEAN SIGNS CHICAGO CONTRACT

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Paul Dean, brother of the Chicago Cubs' pitching ace, Dizzy Dean, signed a one year contract with the St. Louis Cardinals last night.

ROOT, MESNER SIGN CHICAGO CONTRACT

CHICAGO (UP)—Officials of the Chicago Cubs announced today receipt of signed contracts from three players, bringing the total number of signed players for the 1939 season to 17.

The latest to return signed contracts were Charlie Root, 38-year-old right-hander; Steve Mesner, utility infielder.

AT THE RACE TRACKS

BY TOM GWYNNE
(Register Track Correspondent)

Charles S. Howard, who for two years has been the weather bureau's best customer, today has no barometer worries. The needle could even drop down to the typhoon section, and he would still be setting pretty for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap. His astute trainer, Tom Smith, cut loose two of the fanciest mudders yesterday that Santa Anita has seen in many a day. Working together, making the mud look like a dry track. Kayak II and Sortado ran three-quarters in 1:13 with Kayak a neck in front at the end.

Seabiscuit, Howard's top shot and former barometer worry for the big race, could remain in the stable March 4, and his two Argentine stablemates probably would rule favorites.

"They are both great mudders," declared Russell Brown of the Santa Anita clocking staff, following the trail. "In fact," continues Brown, "Mr. Howard has a phenomenal hand for the big race—he might even run one-two-three!"

Mud is overdue for the big race. Rain has hit on all sides the last four years but when "Doc" Strub hung up the $100,000 it was the cue for the sun to come out. Perhaps the signals might get mixed this year.

Kayak II, the most sensational handicap horse to appear under silks here this winter, has won seven out of nine starts, and with any luck, could have won them all. His last start here marked the only time he was ever whipped away from the gate, and he coasted home a mile in 1:36.

Taking him to Eastern mud, he made a sloppy track appear fast at Suffolk Downs, his fractional time was better than most of the races run there on the dry.

Sortado, the Argentine "Triple Crown" winner, is a proved former on the dry, and yesterday's mud trial indicates that he's slightly colossal on an off track.

Seabiscuit, of course, is a whirlwind on the dry and he can hold his own through the mud—provided the racing strip has a hard bottom.

Olimpo, from the Binglin stable, is now in the running for the "hard luck" title of the meeting. Misfortune befell him for the second straight time at the same spot—the sixteenth pole—just when he was charging. Star stall.

CASTEEL TO BE ARIZONA COACH

TUCSON, Ariz.—A spokesman for the board of regents pick-a-coach committee of the University of Arizona today disclosed the committee had selected Miles Casteel, assistant coach at Michigan State college, to head the Wildcats' football team.

Casteel, now en route from Tucson to his home in Lansing, Mich., is expected to accept the appointment within 72 hours. He was one of the four final candidates interviewed here by the committee yesterday and will be hired at a salary of $8,000.

U. S. NETTERS ABOUT DUE FOR ALSO-RAN LIST

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES—Remind me, will you, the next time you see me, to write a letter to Dwight Davis and ask him why he doesn't do his bit toward bettering the world's economic situation by limiting the Davis Cup competition to four or five countries.

Of course, Mr. Davis doesn't know me, and would pay even less attention to my suggestion if he did, but it hurts to read, year after year, that such countries as Denmark, India, Monaco, Ireland and The Netherlands, not to mention Mexico, Sweden and New Zealand, have again entered the Davis Cup lists.

As donor of the big tennis trophy, Mr. Davis should make it impossible for these and similarly tennis-equipped nations to spend their time and money so foolishly. In all the time that the cup has been up for competition only four countries—England, France, Australia and the United States—have won it, and from the looks of things now they are the only countries that are ever going to win it. Germany, Italy and Japan once had a chance, but not any more, it being impossible for man to play good tennis while wearing a military uniform.

As for the other countries they haven't a Chinaman's chance and that goes double for China which also is entered. And it costs plenty to send just one tennis player around to tournaments, much less an entire team. I never made a real study of it, but my guess is that an amateur tennis player is just about the most expensive thing to maintain there is. He just won't travel in the style to which he is accustomed.

It doesn't take an amateur tennis player more than one trip way from home to learn the difference between upper berths and lowers, and not more than two to start talking about compartments. By the time he has made a drawing room man, and turns up his nose at fixed price dinners to give the la carte a play. And he soon learns to do more with an expense account than Kreisler ever did with a violin.

With the money the countries mentioned earlier have spent trying to get a leg on the Davis Cup they could have put new "don't walk on the grass" signs in all their parks devoted to the public, gone a long way toward extermination that widespread pest, the master of ceremonies, and endowed many a struggling foundation with suitable foundation garments.

Judging from the looks of our own Davis Cup team at present it might not be so long before this country joins the cup also-rans. We own the silver bracelet today, but with Don Budge gone, and only the Riggs, Sabins and the Cooks and the Makos to rely on, how much would you lift it to bet that Australia doesn't lift it in the challenge round next summer? Loss of Budge was of no more importance to our team than the loss of his tongue would be to an ant-eater. If the cup gets to Australia it will be no easy task to get it back. The distance and difference in climate and courts will not be the only handicaps to our challengers. I have it on good authority that Australia has some pretty fancy foot-fault judges of its own, and that they haven't entirely forgotten what happened in Philadelphia that hot day last summer.

I speak the language of the house, I know the equine mind—I dominate on every course, I'm turfdom's biggest find!

"Boy, I sure can pick 'em," chuckled the noted maestro of the turf. "I never miss," he concluded modestly.

A check-up disclosed that this was indeed so, most overwhelmingly so, being merely a simple statement of self-evident fact. Needless to say, his astute play for yesterday, Sir Midas, won just as he said he would, although his other astute play, Olimpo, ran second through an error of timing. The gargantuan profit for the day was the titanic tidbit of four coconuts.

LOYOLA BOARD OUTS IN ROW

LOS ANGELES (UP)—The five active lay members of the Loyola university board of athletic control announced today they had resigned because the university president had refused to approve their selection of James G. Donavah, Jr., Henry Bodkin, Thomas McGovern, J.S.A. Smith and George Marion, controlling members of the eight-man graduate body, said the resignations were tendered last Jan. 17 when the Rev. Charles A. McQuillan, S. J., determined on another candidate for the position.

The board members held that the right to hire or discharge coaches was vested with them by the university constitution adopted in 1929 by the board of trustees and the late president, Rev. Joseph A. Sullivan, S. J. They said they selected Vezie, assistant to Lieb for eight years, after considering various name coaches throughout the country and numerous local candidates.

"The president of the university, when informed of the action of the board, then disclosed that, without consulting the members thereof, he had personally interviewed other candidates and as head coach," the statement said.

"Since under the constitution the responsibility of selecting a coach was vested in the board, and as the members were unwilling to accept the individual suggested, they all submitted their resignations. As no announcement of such resignation had been given to the press, such members united in making known their resignations and the circumstances in connection therewith."

The board members did not name the president's candidate but it was reported he had chosen Mike Pecarovich, former Loyola coach and presently head coach at Gonzaga. Bill Sargent, coach of Loyola high school, supposedly was to be hired as an assistant to succeed Vezie.

C. I. F. BALLOTS SENT TO EVERY STATE SCHOOL

Ballots had been distributed today to every high school principal in Orange county and California to determine sentiment for abandonment of competitive football or modification of the game to make it safer to the players.

The ballots were distributed by the State Division of Physical Education. Originally it had been planned to confine the vote solely to members of the California Interscholastic Federation, which does not include some of the larger prep schools such as those in San Francisco and Oakland.

To obtain a more representative sentiment the division of physical education took over the balloting.

Most observers believed there was little possibility principals would vote for abandonment of football, although some C. I. F. members had protested that the game was "over-emphasized" and too dangerous to young players.

The questions on the ballots were:

1. Do you wish interschool American football continued as an integral part of your educational program?

2. Size of school.

3. Does your school now play interschool American football?

4. Does your school play interschool six-man football?

5. Does your school belong to the C. I. F.?

On each ballot was space for each principal to suggest changes in rules or policy of 11-man football as it is now played generally by most of the state's high schools.

DONS SCORE TWIN VICTORY OVER STARS

When the Long Beach Y.M.C.A. basketball team failed to keep a date with Santa Ana jaysee here last night, the Dons had to be satisfied with a game against a hastily reorganized all-star quintet, which already had lost a preliminary contest.

With Bob Schildmeyer and Russ Deardon in rare shooting form, the Don varsity waltzed to a 62-35 win. The college reserves were hard pressed to gain a 50-48 win over the same team in the opener.

Coach Bill Cook is anxious to line up another double bill Friday night. Santa Ana plays at Pomona Monday.

SCRIBES CALL DEAN 'MOST COURAGEOUS'

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, Chicago Cubs flinger who was extolled as the man who pitched his team to the National league pennant despite an ailing arm, today held the Philadelphia Sporting Writers' association's "most courageous athlete of the year award."

The presentation was made to Dizzy at the 35th annual dinner of the association before 1000 guests last night. Jimmy Fox, Boston Red Sox first sacker and American league batting champion, was awarded a plaque as the outstanding athlete of 1938.

Departing from his usual "great I am" role, Dean modestly said that "we fell into the pennant because Pittsburgh folded up like a punctured balloon."

He also praised the work of his teammates, Bill Lee, "Gabby" Hartnett and others.

"Mickey" Cochrane, former Detroit manager who mounted to fame with the Philadelphia Athletics, was hailed as the greatest catcher in baseball.

"This is probably my swan song in baseball," Cochrane said. "It was here that I had my greatest moments of glory and it is fitting that I should say goodbye to baseball here."

29 CHALLENGE FOR DAVIS CUP

BY LESLIE AVERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK (UP)—News from the U. S. Lawn Tennis association that 27 nations—three more than last year—coveted the Davis Cup sufficiently to file 1939 entry blanks caused about as much excitement in flannel pants circles today as a cauliflower ear in Madison Square Garden.

Australia's net team so far overshadows the other 26 entrants that it's dollars to doughnuts the United States will have to defend the trophy against the men from "Down Under" next summer.

The draw, usually an all important part of any tennis eliminations, will be held late Friday at the U. S. L. T. A. offices, but this is one feature that might be dispensed with this year, according to the general consensus, because it will take a Maginot Line to keep the Aussies out of the challenge round.

Here are the 1939 challengers: North American zone—Australia, Canada, Cuba, Japan, Mexico, and the Philippines; European zone—Belgium, China, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain, Hungary, India, Ireland, Italy, Monaco, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Roumania, Sweden, Switzerland, and Yugoslavia. The showdown strike in the South American zone ended when Brazil entered a team.

Although it has not been determined officially, the North American zone winner, which almost certainly will be Australia, probably will meet Brazil, the winner of the series then will face the European zone victor to decide the challenger.

Australia has a brilliant team headed by Young, ambidextrous Jack Bromwich that may go into competition the favorite to bring the cup "Down Under" for the first time since 1919. Bromwich is rated the top amateur in the world since Budge turned professional. He will be aided by Adrian Quist, fifth in world rankings; Vivian McGrath, Leonard Schwartz, Harry Hopman, and there is a possibility the veteran Jack Crawford will try for the team.

France, Germany and Yugoslavia look like the top teams in the European zone. Germany, victor last year which lost 5-0 to Australia in the interzone final, will have Henner Henkel and Georges von Metaxa back. Some reports say that two ace Czechoslovakian players, Ladislav Hecht and Roderich Menzel, will be added to this year's team just as the Austrian Metaxa was absorbed last year. There also is speculation as to whether Baron Gottfried von Cramm might be allowed to return to international competition.
